Go to work, hang out with friends, chill at home, do some homework, talk on the phone, get spiffed up for a date, study for that huge quiz tomorrow, win that big game, shop 'til you drop, keep up with the latest style, make time for the family, get online or play around on the computer, have a movie night, go out with your significant other, take a nap, brag about your car, pick out your favorite outfit, play your friends in a huge competition on Play Station 2, an overflow of things to do. MHS Students have so much to do, but only four years to get it all done.

Looking like normal teenage girls, Freshmen Heather Zurek, Jessica Gallinatti and Erin Parks wear what they think is stylish. "I see what other people are wearing, and if I like it, I buy it," said Gallinatti.

Sacrificing his pain for his mom, Sophomore Bryant Person displays his tattoo of praying hands.

Express Yourself

Expression: A facial aspect or look that conveys a special feeling.

Many students express themselves in different ways that set them apart from the rest, whether by dying their hair or simply wearing a certain style of clothes. High school is a very influential part of determining who students are and what they will be. Some students even change themselves to show love or appreciation for other people.

"My mom and I were going through a lot of stuff, and I wanted people to pray for her," said Sophomore Bryant Person when asked about his tattoo of praying hands.

Not only do students show their individuality through their physical appearances, but also with their attitudes and talents. Sophomore Adam Morris expresses himself with breakdancing. His originality reflects his unique personality.

"When you make up your own moves, you kind of put a little bit of yourself in each one,"

Morris explained.

Team apparel helps athletes show their school support and spirit. The Football Team varies what they wear on game days from their jerseys to tight t-shirts. The Wrestling Team also shows spirit through their clothing, but they usually stick to Merrillville wrestling apparel.

Students have their own way of expressing themselves. What some call "weird" is just unique. However students want to do express themselves, they are trying to show who they are.

Trying to look tough, wrestlers Juniors Tommy Vechey and Rob Wahlman, Seniors Brad Woodward, Noyan Olcum, Breon Harris, Paul Kurczynski and Clint Wimmer show team spirit by wearing MHS wrestling shirts on days of meets.

How do you express yourself?

Cars

Various cars flood the parking lot daily, creating a plethora of colors and models.

Leaning on his Camero, Senior Chris Adams is known for having a nice car. Adams likes to use his free time to work on his car to make it go faster.

Hanging his head in disappointment, Senior Jared Byczko stands next to his worn out truck. Byczko always carries jumper cables because he never knows when it will start.

Catching a wave after school, Seniors Jon Gutierrez and Eric Nolan "hang ten" next to one of the biggest cars in school. Many students refer to these monstrous vehicles as a "boat."

A car, for high school students, is not just a mode of transportation; it is a way of life. A student's car shows individuality and responsibility. Once a teen is 16 and 30 days, his time has come to grasp this almighty prestige, a license. This is not just an ID. It is every teen's ticket to freedom. No riding the school bus, getting dropped off by parents or mooching rides from friends.

"It's not how you stand by your car. It's how you race your car." Edwin. Ja Rule. "The Fast and the Furious"

However, having a car and the money to pay for it are two different questions. Some students work to pay for car payments and insurance. Others split the costs with their parents, and some do not have to pay for anything. However this is achieved, students would sacrifice anything for their cars.

Senior Lauren Strom explains about her pride and joy. "The Taurus is classic, she's been through some hard times with me. I lost her in Indianapolis when Freshman Jessica Francis, Sophomore Megan Stacks and I could not find the right parking garage," Strom said. "It took about four hours, but we finally found her."

The weekends, especially, are a time to show off. Friends often cruise together to find something to do. This is such an influential part of high school, even MTV created a show, FM Nation, for it. Whether the car is a Beamer or a beater, a teen's first car will always hold a place in his or her heart.

Zoom Zoom! Michelle Rodriguez is the proud owner of this speedy, yellow Mazda 6. This is the newest addition to the MHS parking lot.

Sitting next to his car, Senior Vince Torres takes pride in the work he put into his 1978 Pontiac Trans Am. Torres spent a year and a half rebuilding his car by himself.

Sitting on their enormous vehicles, Junior Steve Burke and Senior Jake Appleton tower over the other cars in the parking lot. It is hard to miss them after school as their roaring trucks plow over the pavement.

At Merrillville High School, showing off your ID picture is a new fashion statement. Sophomore Michael Booker shows how boring his outfit looks without his school ID compared to how stunning he looks with his "Pirate pride" around his neck.

New rules and enforcements have changed the dress codes. Before the new dress codes were enforced, Senior Kristina Damjonoska was allowed to wear this "stylin" miniskirt, but now she must stick to the knee-length skirts so she doesn't get sent home.

If there were one thing that you could change about the dress code, what would it be?

"Guys would be able to wear cut-off shirts."

Louis Panayi '04

"The length of our shorts should be our choice."

Elaina Gemelas '05

"We should not have to wear these ID's."

Deniel Dean '03

"We should be able to wear sleeveless shirts as long as they have thick enough straps."

Janel Barsich '06

Out with the old and in with the new. Demonstrating this popular saying, Senior Ronda Fruehling models the new and old ways of wearing spaghetti strap tops. Many girls must now wear sweaters to cover their visible shoulders.

Wearing one of her favorite shirts, Senior Liz Gallinatti shows off her great sense of style. Gallinatti later learns that she is no longer allowed to wear the shirt off her shoulders, due to the new dress codes at MHS.

Was it a new school or just a new year?

The administration made some changes. The first surprise to students was the new dress code rule: that shirts must have sleeves that cover the entire shoulder.

Some students were upset about this new rule because most of their new school clothes were already bought for the school year.

The new ID policy was the next rule, enforced November 5, 2002. All IDs must be worn around the neck on purple Pirate lanyards.

Students had mixed opinions about the new policy.

"We attend a public school, so we should be able to wear whatever we want. I don't understand why we can't just have our IDs in our back pocket. Why do we have to wear them around our neck?" Senior Brad Woodward asked.

*"To change and to change for the better are two different things."
German proverb*

Senior Deniel Dean said, "We need to get rid of these IDs!" However, other students did not mind wearing their IDs.

"Some rules are understandable, but this is a public school. We should be able to express our individuality!" stated Junior Allison Snyder.

Laura Lackey

"Sagging" is a common fashion of teenage boys at MHS. Proving a point, Senior Steven Marcus shows how hard it is to get to class on time, while "sagging" compared to how quickly he gets to class when his pants are pulled up.

Changes have taken MHS by storm.

Chris P. Bacon* always wanted to be normal, but he couldn't. Not since it happened. It did not happen over night. The symptoms appeared gradually. Friends and family knew he had a problem, but he was in denial. His mother, Marsha Mellow*, was the first to notice the change in her son. His schoolwork starting slipping, and he stopped going to work. On one specific occasion, during a "Brady Bunch" marathon, Mellow claims her son recited the show's dialogue for an entire two hours to himself without missing a beat. Once Bacon was aware of his mother's presence, he became infuriated and turned violent. He sprung from the chair leaving only his imprint behind. His mother knew there was only one place he would turn to for refuge: the kitchen. Mellow was led to her son by the trail of cheese puffs. She watched him rummage through the pantry while he repeatedly said, "You don't understand. You could never understand!" With tears in her eyes, she could see the lost little boy she used to know behind the mask of cheese. At that exact moment they both knew this was rock bottom, and it was time to get help.

Halloween

Who says we're too old to drop by and trick-or-treat?

Carving a pumpkin, choosing a costume, and deciding where to trick-or-treat launches the madness associated with Halloween night. Kids infiltrate neighborhoods in search of "the Holy Grail" or candy on this anticipated evening, October 31. Nothing can prepare home owners for what they must encounter, high schoolers.

Many MHS students remain young at heart and continue their annual tradition of trick-or-treating.

Senior Jaclyn Hac agreed, "Even though I'm older, I still want to act like a kid as much as I can."

Once again on this renowned day, an assortment of costumes, which were almost not allowed at school, livened the halls. Each unique costume reflected the imagination and creativity of its wearer.

Freshman Bryan Ruder commented, "I went trick-or-treating to get lots of candy. I also get to dress up and act stupid for the day."

No matter the age, 8 or 18, nothing takes away the excitement experienced on Halloween night.

"Yeah baby!" Showing off his "shagadelic" costume, Junior Nick Cunningham grooves down the hallways as Austin Powers.

A New You

Guys and girls alike constantly change their appearance to follow this new wave of style.

Biding her time, Senior Mary Kate Lucas reads a magazine while waiting for her highlights to be finished. "I've been highlighting my hair since I was 13, so it's kind of a way of life," Lucas stated.

Getting a makeover from Merle Norman consultant Vicki Byrom, Senior Cora Gray remains motionless while blush is applied. Getting a makeover is often common before dances.

In today's society, people constantly try to change their appearances for various reasons.

Some people change in order to fit in. Some people change to model themselves after actors, singers and other celebrities. Some simply change to feel better about themselves. In a society dominated by tanning beds, hair dye and colored contacts, rarely are people completely natural.

Senior Brittany Williams stated, "I highlight my hair in order to bring out its natural color and add a little spice."

Jamie McLaughlin, a senior, stated, "I got my nails done for Homecoming, and after that, I just kept getting them done."

This trend, however, is not only for girls. Guys and girls alike constantly change their appearances to follow this new wave of style. But, dying hair, tanning and wearing colored contacts are not the only ways to change one's appearance.

Although it may seem a little old-fashioned, in comparison to this new wave of style, working out and lifting weights are ways most people change their looks.

Senior Joey Frasca stated, "I work out to increase my athletic talent; however, it also gives me a sense of self-confidence."

Whatever the reason may be, people try hard to present themselves in the best possible way, and that trend is something that will continue for awhile.

Monique Navarro

"Good, better, best; never let it rest till your good is better and your better is best." Anonymous

Applying her tanning lotion, Senior Diana Hughes prepares to fake-'n-bake. Tanning has become popular among high school students and adults.

What do you do to change your appearance?

"I go tanning to look better." Kim Shapley '03

"I think dying my hair makes me fit in." Steve Burke '04

"Dying my hair makes me look fly." Donnie Metlovski '03

"I like being a blonde rather than a brunette, so I highlight my hair." Heather Zurek '06

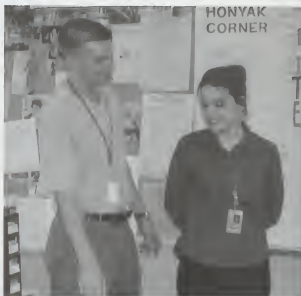

"I believe I look hot in my colored contacts." Ronnie Pedroza '05

Taking out her colored contact, Senior Vanessa Rodriguez shows the difference between her natural and fake eye color. Many students wear colored contacts even if they do not need a prescription.

Showing off her manicured acrylic nails, Junior Laura Lackey prefers fake nails to her natural nails. Lackey explained, "They prevent me from biting my real nails."

Sharing ideas, Mr. Don Baron and Mrs. Amber Baron look at a stack of papers. They are one of the three married couples at MHS.

Standing in front of their lockers, Junior Jeannelle Moreno talks with Seniors Cynthia Gonzalez and Brittney Stocia about after-school plans. These three have become very close because of swimming.

Who do you go to when you have a problem?

"My girls, because I've known them forever." Michelle Farley '03

"My boy, Greg Hill, because he is cool." Joseph Williams II '06

"My boyfriend, Jeremiah Ashe, because he is also my best friend." Rebecca Longacre '04

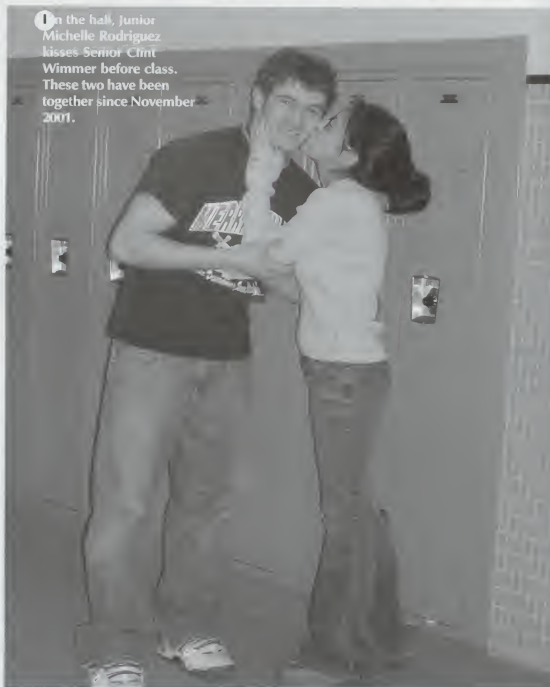

"Mr. Zimmerman, because he is easy to talk to." Brian Jostes '03

"Mrs. Sulich, because she is not just a counselor, but also a friend." Michelle Paskash '05

In the hall, Junior Michelle Rodriguez kisses Senior Clint Wimmer before class. These two have been together since November 2001.

Throughout high school everyone finds a special someone who changes his or her life just by being a part of it. Some will remember role models or teachers, while others will remember friends, siblings or first crushes. These people are there when obstacles arise or when laughter is uncontrollable.

Many advantages come along with having a sibling at school. They provide comfort, advice and sometimes even a ride. Even after siblings graduate, their advice is never forgotten. Junior Brandon Mosley remembers the advice his brother gave him during his freshman year.

"I remember when I was about to fight at school, my brother knocked some sense into me and said it's not worth getting in trouble," stated Mosley.

Other than family, many students will never forget the friendships they have made in school. Some will remember the football games or after-school clubs, while others will never forget the memories made outside of school.

"Sitting around and laughing when my boys would prank people is something I'll never forget," said Sophomore Alex Gates.

For some, high school is quickly coming to an end, and for others, just beginning. One thing that they have in common is that they will never let go of the memories.

"I'm going to miss my friends from high school next year. It has been a good four years of meeting new people as well as having life long friends," stated

Senior Michael Berta.

When the year comes to an end, students look back at all the memories they have created. Some may be more memorable, but most will never be forgotten. Wherever students go in life, they will always have the memories and years together at MHS.

Lindsey Gabriel
Lindsay Warus

Getting mistaken for each other is normal for twins. For Seniors Claudia and Arlinda Nava-McCain and Greg and Alex Hernandez, it happens all the time. "It's gotten to the point where I don't even care and just go with what they call me," stated Arlinda.

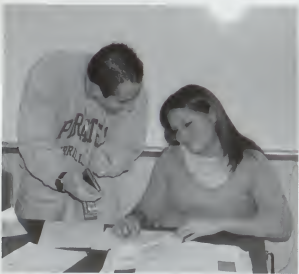

Sticking together through thick and thin

Relationships

Purple & White Nostalgia

Faces may fade, but memories will last forever

Showing Sophomore James Reitz his place in the book, Senior Joshua Diaz helps out a friend in class. The Diaz family moved to DeMotte before the school year started. He said, "I wanted to stay here because we have a good sports program. I like the teachers and I didn't want to lose my friends."

With gratitude, Junior Ashley Dallas receives help from her favorite teacher and MHS alumnus, Mr. Tony Bartolomeo. Mr. Bartolomeo's dedication to the school is evident by his return as a teacher and a coach. He said, "To me, Merrillville is a home with good times and good people."

Needing help with class decisions, Freshman Aaron Hindson looks to get help from his guidance counselor Mrs. Michelle Sulich. Merrillville counselors communicate with one another to help the students.

Some cannot wait to say goodbye, and others cannot seem to stay away. The majority of the students have spent more than half their lives with the Merrillville Community School Corporation. Some students experience that contagious syndrome many call senioritis.

If students had the chance to start over and go somewhere new, would they go? Senior Joshua Diaz had the chance, but decided to stay.

Last summer Joshua's family moved to Kankakee Valley. Diaz said, "I didn't want to start at a new school."

Diaz chose to use his senior rights and remained at MHS.

"I wanted to stay with people I have grown up with and have known since kindergarten," Diaz said. "I love the sports systems here, from the soccer field to the swimming pool."

This was a hard decision for Diaz to make. The drive from home to school takes 30 minutes.

As a 1994 graduate, Mr. Tony Bartolomeo, a science teacher said, "MHS is home to me. I like the kids that are here. The students and staff are what make me want to stay here!"

Mr. Bartolomeo said little has changed since he was a student here nine years ago. "The only fact is that there are more rules and policies," he noted.

Soccer Coach Mr. Brian Past has had offers from West Lafayette and Crown Point to coach and teach, but he remains here.

"I enjoy teaching with the English Department from the academic point. From the athletic point, I have the best athletic support in the state of Indiana," he said.

He added, "Most of all, I enjoy the quality of the students in the classroom and on the soccer field."

Mr. Tom Feeney shows off his 1962 Merrillville Junior High Yearbook (inset).

A Merrillville Community School Corporation employee for 35 years, Mr. Tom Feeney once said he "bleeds purple." He retired after the 2002-2003 school year, after teaching countless students the rudiments of math. Mr. Feeney coached cross country at the middle school for 30 years and track for 27 years. He likened retirement to a paradox and said, "I know I'll miss the stimulation of being with different people every day, but I am looking forward to getting into a different lifestyle."

MHS boys' Cross Country Team has attitude and determination to win

Hard work and determination to improve on last season's record drove the boys' Cross Country Team during the 2002 fall season.

"Basically, the 2001 season was a disappointment for us," explained Junior Cliff Cook. "We didn't make it out of sectionals. We were looking to improve and redeem ourselves. We also wanted to do it for Coach," Cook added. "He works so hard to push us to the next level."

Along with the desire to improve their performance, team members also wanted to attract more runners.

"Our goal was to get more people to come out," Cook explained. "And this year we doubled the team numbers."

Team members not involved in other sports trained during the winter and the summer three days a week, determined to improve their performance.

According to Junior Ricardo Hernandez, "We were of a mind that we were going to get out of sectionals."

He also added, "The score was close. We were one point over Hobart and Andean."

"After the team came in fifth at the Crown Point sectional, the team was pumped for the regional," Hernandez said.

"We didn't do as well," Hernandez commented. "It was windy and we ran the race early in the morning."

"We weren't disappointed," he added. "We were happy for the way the season went."

Team MVP Hernandez quoted, "Next year we are going to be on top. We'll be one of the top dogs. We have people who want to be the best for the good of Merrillville."

Vince Torres

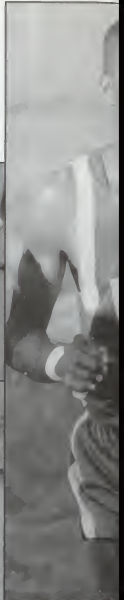

Staying ahead of the opponent, Junior Ricardo Hernandez picks up the pace. Hernandez was named MVP of the team this year.

Teammates of Senior Andrew Leicht know his strength is his ability to sprint at the end of the race and finish strong.

Attempting to pass a Valparaiso runner on the two-mile stretch is Junior Cliff Cook. Cook earned the Most Improved award after this season.

Sophomore Brett Skrupa and Freshman Kevin Wilson often ran together during the season. Wilson finished the season competing on varsity.

Before the start of the LaPorte/Valpo meet, members of the Merrillville team await the "bang" from the starting gun.

Pushing each other, Junior Cliff Cook and Senior Eric Barcenas run side by side to finish the race. Barcenas transferred from Bishop Noll Institute. The duo worked together and ran each race side by side.

Setting his own pace, Sophomore Matt Crane does his best to keep a steady pace. The 2002 season was the first season Crane ran for the Pirates.

The fastest freshman in the DAC and in MHS history, Justin Floyd, works hard to stay ahead. Justin ran a solid second throughout the season.

After running a hard race, Junior Ricardo Hernandez turns to see the end of the race, as Senior Alysia Fortney congratulates Senior Michael Hill on a good race.

Focusing on the finish, Senior Pauline Petruch shows her determination. Petruch advanced to regional competition and was named the team MVP.

Never giving up, Juniors Katie Wilson and Natalie Weall prepare for the last dash to the finish. As juniors, Wilson and Weall provided experience to the Pirates.

Hearing the sound of the gun, the Lady Pirates start the race as a pack during a meet against Portage. The team gained unity as the season progressed.

Pacing her steps, Senior Jamie Sweeney strides toward the finish line. Sweeney uses cross country as a preparation for the track season.

KICKIN' CROSS COUNTRY

The girls' Cross Country Team goes the distance

Drawing strength from within, Junior Megan Lacny endures the difficulties of the race. Lacny improved with every race over the two-mile course.

Trying to improve with every meet, Sophomore Dana Bolden concentrates on the race to the finish. Bolden hopes to continue improving in order to make an impact next year as a junior.

Exhausted at the end of the two-mile race, Senior Claudia Nava-McCain catches her breath after a meet against Valparaiso. Nava-McCain has dedicated four years as a Pirate runner.

Adrenaline pumps through the runner's veins as sweat pours down her anguished face. The finish line comes into view as her heart pounds harder and harder in her chest. Even though her body is drained of all energy, she reaches deep down to make that final kick to the end of the race. The girls' Cross Country team experienced this feeling as they strode to the finish line.

Despite minor aches and pains, this well balanced team of seniors and underclassmen did not let their goals waver during the season. The team's goals included improving their individual times as well as cheering everyone on until everyone crossed the finish line.

Senior Jamie Sweeney commented, "Throughout the course of the season, our attitudes improved, and we just felt more confident in our running. Though it took hard work and dedication, at the end of the season everyone was happy with what they achieved, and the team just came together as a family."

Senior Claudia Nava-McCain also added that the team's greatest accomplishment was improving their times. Nava-McCain stated, "There were people who ran in the twenties last year that are running in the teens this year."

As the season progressed, the team's confidence increased tremendously, which boosted their overall performance. Senior Pauline Petrich led the way in tough times for this tight-knit group in the tough Duneland Athletic Conference. Even though the team did not go as far as they wanted to, the hard work and dedication involved in cross country paid off.

Improving takes hard work, determination and patience. The girls' Golf Team had all of these things working for them this year. Playing in the Duneland Conference means that competition will be tough. The team put up good scores against tough competitors like Crown Point, Chesterton and Valparaiso.

Led by new Coach Mike Hamacher, the girls focused on the little things this year. They spent most of their time improving their short games and course managing abilities. A large majority of their practice time was anchored toward putting and chipping the ball close to the hole from around the greens. According to her teammates, Junior Jacquene Barsich provided the team with some experience, which she used to help other members of the MHS team prepare for matches.

Mid-season highlights included some incredible shots by Barsich and Sophomore Megan Frasca. Coach Hamacher realizes that this year "tested his patience," but feels that the team will only improve for next year. With everyone returning, look for the Pirates to be a real force next season.

'GIMME' GOLF

New head coach helps girls get in the swing of competition

Practicing the "chip shot," Freshman Angela East shows her skills. As a starting freshman, East continued to help her team succeed throughout the season.

Preparing to put the ball in the hole, Freshman Ashley Washburn concentrates on the shot. Concentration played a major role in the success of the team.

Hitting out of a bunker is one of the hardest shots in golf. Sophomore Julie Fabian tries to improve her skills by making a great shot.

Aiming for the hole, Sophomore Megan Frasca finishes her swing. Frasca was a key player for the varsity team.

Improving his team's skills, Coach Mike Hamacher shows Sophomore Julie Fabian how the correct swing should look. Hamacher's coaching skills helped the team improve.

As she prepares to tee off, Freshman Tamara Gaddy concentrates on her shot. Teeing off was an important part of tournament play.

Shooting away, Freshman Rachel Hayes hopes for a great shot. Her long drives helped lower her score.

As she prepares for an important shot, Freshman Janel Barsich concentrates on lining her ball up with the hole. Barsich continued to have many great shots throughout the season.

Squinting through the sunlight, Junior Jacylene Barsich tries to find the right line to jar the ball in the hole. Putting is one of the most important aspects of golf.

Trainers Sean Hudson and Kim Hurysz show Tony Sablan how to care for injured players. The trainer's room became a second home to Seniors Abrego, Nava and Tegtmann.

Contributing to Merrillville's 20-10 victory, Senior Chris Harris tries escaping from Lake Central's Nick Boddle to gain yards for the first down.

Getting ready to return a punt, Senior Eric Morris carries the ball up the field to bring them closer to the end zone for one of his eleven touchdowns.

Following a tradition, Senior Captains Temidayo Macarthy, Joey Frasca, Paul Kurczynski and Jeff Abrego show unity and togetherness while walking out onto the field for the coin toss.

Charging toward their opponents, Seniors Temidayo Macarthy, Joey Frasca and Junior Rob Wahlman work hard to defend their line.

Breaking away from the defenders, Junior Brandon Mosley races down the field while Senior Adam Tegtman prepares to block Lake Central's Dale Murzyn.

Jumping for the ball, Senior Eric Morris keeps the ball out of Lake Central's Geoff Walker's reach.

Using all of his effort, Senior Aaron Powell blocks his opponent to help the Pirates score a touchdown.

With force, Sophomore Jimmy Reitz throws the pass to his teammate. Reitz filled in as quarterback this season.

This year, the Pirates had the team, the talent and the determination. Then, misfortunes made them realize that sticking together is the main key to a football team.

Head Coach Jeff Yelton agreed that working together is what a team is all about.

"Considering all the obstacles with injuries we had to overcome, the kids did a great job working together and never gave up on one another," stated Coach Yelton.

Sticking together became crucial when those injuries knocked out key players.

With a hurt knee, Senior Jeff Abrego still played while Seniors Ryan Nava and Adam Tegtman watched from the sidelines.

"Getting hurt senior year was depressing especially since we had just started to click," Tegtman explained.

Stepping up, Sophomore Jimmy Reitz feels it was a learning experience to fill in as quarterback. He will remember it as something he both did and did not want to do.

"When Coach told me I was going in, I was shaking in my boots," Reitz said with a laugh.

As the season came to an end, thoughts for next season filled the minds of those who will be returning. However, the thoughts for the seniors were different. Many were overwhelmed at the thought of walking off the field for the last time.

Senior Joey Frasca said with a sigh, "It was sad knowing it was the last game of high school and the end of an era playing with these guys."

FERCE FOOTBALL

Injury plagued season forces Pirates to become closer

STAR-STUDDER SOCCER

So close, but not quite there

Despite a victorious prior season, the 2002 Pirates were thought to have no chance to return to the Final Four State Championship in Indianapolis. Most area teams had their eye out for them and were ready to take the team down. The Pirates started the season off with a record of 6-0, but then a loss to Lake Central sparked a three game losing streak for the team.

However, no one gave up hope. In fact, Coach Brian Past and the team chanted out "FOCUS, B.T.S (Back to State)" before every game and at halftime. The boys fought through injuries and losing streaks as they stampeded over the path directed straight through sectionals, regionals and semi-state right back down to Kuntz Stadium for the second consecutive year. Senior Jon Gutierrez elaborated, "Despite losing state, we all came together as a team and left as a family. It's hard when you are forced to hang up your cleats after being so close to a dream of winning state."

Several injuries plagued the team to damage their egos throughout the fall, with the most severe to Seniors Jared Byczko, Eric Nolan and Martin Cole. Senior Captain Martin Cole explained, "Despite all of the injuries that we endured during the season, the team united both off and on the field to pump up the morale and spark the flame of desire to dominate."

Although the high school careers of 17 seniors ceased on November 2 after the first round of State against North Central, they ended with a commendable 20-5 season.

The season was a great success overall; the team accomplished several goals as well as earned respect. The team kept a running list of goals throughout the season, falling short of only three: walking away from Kuntz Stadium as State Champions, winning the Duneland Athletic Conference and going undefeated. They did, however, receive no red penalty cards, take the Sectional, Regional and Semi-state titles, win all games played on their home field and make it back to the Final Four.

Senior Captain Peter Brasovan, the Pirate goalie, said, "I feel that we left a tradition unlike any other. How many kids can grow up saying they won three sectionals, three regionals and two semi-state championships. I will never forget those guys and the legacy we left at M.H.S. and in Northwest Indiana."

Kate Santeramo

With Lafayette Harrison's Robbie Brigham, Randy Ristam and Pirate Captain Igor Risteovski on his tail, Senior Captain Vangel Nacovski charges toward the goal. Nacovski ended the season with 48 goals and his high school career with 162.

Leaping for a header, Senior Captain Jared Byczko tries to "win it in the air." Byczko was a crucial member of the midfield.

After making one of his 161 saves of the season, Senior Captain Peter Brasovan clears the ball from the six-yard box. Brasovan managed a record-breaking nine shutouts within the teams' 25 games in 2002.

Making his routine crossover, Senior Nick Mileos psyches Harrison's Billy Tartar out. Mileos often worked the ball to advance past several opponents.

Wide open and ready to play, Senior Igor Risteovski receives a pass from one of his 24 teammates. He knows that with his focus, the reception would not go overlooked. Risteovski played with leg injuries throughout the season, but his steady play remained strong.

Eager to handle the ball, Junior Jason Kendera battles to win a 50-50 ball with Harrison's Clay Cook. Kendera was one of the few non-seniors to start for the Pirates.

Without letting up, Junior Vincent Cole attempts to create some offense as Nate Kelsey keeps an eye on him. V. Cole definitely held up to his two brothers', Martin and Darnell, reputations.

Dribbling out of the defense, Senior Captain Martin Cole makes quick moves as Harrison's Nate Kelsey observes. Cole, named defensive MVP, was elected for Second Team All-State for the second time.

Stepping to the ball, Senior Brian Nienhaus looks to attack the goal. Nienhaus was a key player in the Pirates' success throughout the years.

Psyching out the defenders with a swift move, Junior Shay Kuzma avoids defenders Abigail Hinchy and Alicia Kielbasa of Griffith on her march to the goal. Kuzma was a crucial player in the starting line-up.

Maintaining a tough defensive position, Freshman Alison Conquest shields off Sophomore Star Sepulveda of Griffith. Conquest learned quickly and helped fortify the midfield position.

Keeping an eye on the ball, Senior Brittany Williams blocks off Griffith Sophomore Charlotte Joseph at a Saturday home game. Williams, one of the team captains, was the leading scorer with 17 goals.

SIZZLIN' SOCCER

Dedication drives team onward as the young players mold into a mature group

Streaking up the sideline, Sophomore Kim Jansen clears the ball out of her zone and away from the tough Chesterton offense. Jansen was a key member of the Pirates' defensive scheme.

Tied up as they go for the ball, Junior Mallory Homola uses her athletic ability to quickly maneuver around the offensive opponent. Homola's experience in the backfield saved multiple goals against the Pirates.

Whoosh! Blowing by Griffith Junior Jaci Kobeszka, midfielder Emily Czekala streaks toward the goal as she attempts to put her team over the top. Czekala, although only a freshman, was a strong asset for the Pirates.

Sliding for the save, Senior Laura Sopko knocks the ball away from a hard-charging Chesterton player. Sopko's experience and leadership as a captain helped her become a force in the goal and one of the best in the area.

Rain or shine, the girls' Soccer Team practiced every day to improve their overall skills.

"Everybody worked together much better and our overall attitude was better this year than last years'. We conditioned all summer long, with extra running and weight lifting," remarked Senior Deanna Rivera.

Seniors Ronda Fruehling, Deanna Rivera, Laura Sopko and Brittany Williams led their fairly young team to many unexpected victories. The girls' Soccer Team had a good season with an overall record of 8-9-1, and a DAC record of 3-4.

The girls' team, along with head coach Tammy Deel, received a helping hand with the addition of a new JV coach, Kristi Krooswyk.

"She brought a new energy to the team. She had a lot of patience and helped propel us in a positive direction," commented Sopko.

Throughout the season, the team began to show many improvements. They defended their title at the South Bend Riley Tournament and had a convincing victory on Senior Night over Hobart.

The dedication of the girls led them to win the first round of sectionals, which had proven to be a daunting task for the last three years.

Igor Risteviski

Shoving off the defender, Sophomore Mandy Madellin uses her strength to take control of the offense. Madellin was a key player in the Pirates' success this season.

Cutting off the opponent, Senior Deanna Rivera tries to gain control of the ball. She was one of four seniors that led the Pirates.

Coach David Zimmerman and his Pirates face obstacles every season, and this year was no different from the rest. After losing varsity singles player, David Uremovich, to a move, and foreign exchange student, Florian Aeschmann, to new IHSAA rules, the Pirates rebounded to claim a share of the Duneland Conference title.

Returning varsity players Junior Greg Branda, Senior Tony Stofko, Sophomore Daniel Burkus, and Senior Cole Perkins guided the incoming freshmen and new varsity players Freshmen Drake Branda and Jared Perkins and Junior Josh Donahue, with patience and leadership.

Competing in tournaments in Jeffersonville and Noblesville provided the team with the chance to play new teams and gain experience. Team unity proved important as the Pirates had nail-biting wins over Laporte, Michigan City, and Chesterton 3-2 to clinch a share of the DAC title. "Winning the DAC was our most difficult goal to obtain," commented Coach Zimmerman. The Pirates also will be remembered for beating the area favorite Munster 3-2, the first boys tennis team to do so in MHS history.

In Sectionals, a line-up change for Andrean proved effective as the Pirates fell in the title match 2-3, abruptly ending the Pirates' season. However, the number one doubles team of Senior Tony Stofko and Sophomore Daniel Burkus advanced to Regionals for the Bucs after winning both matches in Sectional play. Stofko and Burkus advanced to the State tournament with regional wins and were named to the First Team All-State. Stofko said, "Going to State with Daniel was an exciting way to end my senior year."

Casady Pruitt

Hitting the ball forcefully, Freshman Drake Branda goes for the victory. Branda achieved the feat of being a freshman on the Varsity team with the guidance of partner Senior Cole Perkins.

After scoring the point, Senior Cole Perkins and Freshman Drake Branda congratulate each other. At number two doubles, Perkins and Branda contributed greatly to many of the team's victories.

Watching the ball, Senior Cole Perkins waits to see what the opponents will do in return. As an experienced senior, Perkins was a consistent player for the Pirates this year.

After winning the point, Senior Tony Stofko and Sophomore Daniel Burkus give each other a high five to stay fired up. Stofko and Burkus were named First Team All State and also ended the season undefeated in the DAC.

Hitting a powerful serve, Junior Josh Donahue goes for the ace. Donahue was the number two singles player for the Pirates and improved with each match.

TENACIOUS TENNIS

Dedication drives team onward, as the players rebound after key losses

During a match against Crown Point, Sophomore Daniel Burkus returns a serve. Burkus teamed with Senior partner Tony Stofko to advance to the State tournament.

Reaching down to make the shot, Freshmn Jared Perkins attempts to get the ball back over the net. Perkins made his high school debut playing at the three singles position.

Focusing on his positioning, Senior Tony Stofko hits a forehand to the opponents. Stofko received the sportsmanship award as he completed his last season for the Pirates.

With focus and determination, Junior Greg Branda smashes the ball over the net. Branda played number one singles for the Bucs and was the conference and team MVP.

Jumping high above the net, Junior Tianna Coleman attacks the ball. Coleman was named to the Duneland Athletic Conference team and had 304 kills for the season.

Leaping above the net, Senior Kim Shapley blocks the ball against the Lake Station Eagles. Shapley played the middle hitter/blocker position this year.

Diving to save the ball, Junior Amy Wedding helps the Pirates defeat the Lake Station Eagles. Wedding, the team's only setter, had 869 assists for the year.

Aggressively jumping above the net, Senior Christine Aloia "stuffs" the ball back into the opponent's face. Aloia had an 86% blocking percentage for this year. She also received the Best Mental Attitude award as well as team MVP.

Reaching for the ball, Junior Carol Newell prepares to hit during the Lake Central game. Newell led the Pirates with 310 kills this season, and she was named Co-MVP of the Duneland Athletic Conference.

Staying low to the ground, Senior Liz Gallinatti prepares to pass the ball during the Lake Station game. The Pirates easily defeated the Eagles with scores of 21-6, 21-10, 21-5.

Three-year varsity player, Heidi Hammond, a junior, passes the ball up to the setter. Hammond, a defensive specialist, had 196 digs this season.

With perfect form, Senior Monique Navarro, prepares to pass the ball. Navarro, a defensive specialist, helped the Pirates defeat the Lake Central Indians.

VICTORIOUS VOLLEYBALL

VOLLEYBALL 39

"SIZE DOESN'T MATTER!" This motto signified that the team would be successful even though they lacked the height that many other teams possessed.

Nothing hindered the Pirates' goals throughout the season.

"We worked hard to prove to people that we could achieve our goals despite the lack of height," explained Junior Carol Newell.

This motto proved to be true as the Pirates went undefeated in their first six games. Their first defeat, however, did not stop the Pirates from working hard in the games that followed.

The DAC loss to LaPorte motivated the team to defeat the remaining conference teams. Also, when the team played Lake Central, a team that had beaten them for the last three years, they showed their determination by pulling out a 3-2 match victory.

After the Pirates won three games against Chesterton, Valparaiso and Crown Point, they regained their title as sectional champions. Next came the regional match where they would face LaPorte for the third time this year.

Senior Christine Aloia stated, "We felt confident going into the game because we had split the games during the season. It just came down to which team was the strongest."

This volleyball team fought hard during the game, but unfortunately, the team was not triumphant in what turned out to be the team's last game of the season.

Despite the loss at regionals, the Pirates still ended the season as DAC Co-Champions and sectional champions.

BLAZIN' BASKETBALL

Young team comes together at the right time

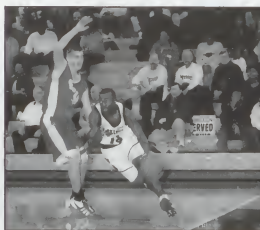

"This was a season like none other," described Senior Captain Igor Risteovski. This year, the Pirates felt a field of emotions as the up and down season could easily be compared to any roller coaster at Great America. Although the roller coaster season may have been a learning experience for the younger players, to the team's four seniors, the season was a lesson in leadership. Guards Risteovski and Chris Harris, along with Center Geoff Lalic and Forward Dave Coughlin, provided guidance in the closing moments of many tough games. Almost every game came down to the wire, including a few that stretched into overtime. However, the clutch and talented play of Sophomore Josh Mayo and Junior Lavell Cook kept the Pirates on top during many of the tense moments.

Things never seemed to completely come together until sectionals came around. With a tough opening game against Valparaiso, followed by a nail biter against Chesterton, the Pirates started to find their rhythm. Then, in the sectional championship game, the Pirates were able to overcome a tough first half to defeat Crown Point for the title. But the story doesn't end there.

As the underdog, the Pirates came into Michigan City the following weekend. The overlooked team was deemed by sportscasters to be quickly ousted by EC Central. That was not to be, as the Pirates played intensely and pulled off the "upset." The win put the Pirates in the regional championship game that night against favorite South Bend Riley. Again, led by Mayo's 33 points, the Pirates pulled off the victory in the most dramatic fashion, with two buzzer beaters. The first came from an unexpected Junior Dezmon Jackson, and the second came from Freshman Greg Hill, who completed a three point play for the classic victory. But the story doesn't end there.

The following Saturday, about half the population of Merrillville High made the trip to the semi-state in Lafayette. Playing against their toughest opponent of the season, Dekalb, the Pirates rallied late from a 19 point deficit to pull within 7. Only in the final two minutes were the "cardiac kids" finally defeated. Coach Jim East handed many praises down and said, "Even our fans were awesome... some of the best that Merrillville's ever had." In retrospect, the team has nothing to hang its head about. "This team, I think, exceeded a lot of people's expectations," said Lalic. Losing only four seniors this year, the Pirates look primed to top this year's accomplishments and begin next season right where this one left off.

Using his quickness, Senior Chris Harris drives down the baseline past Andrean defender Junior Pete Trgovich. Known for his athleticism, Harris contributed to both ends of the floor for the Pirates.

Stretching over Andrean Senior Brett Goins, Junior Bojan Jovanovic shoots for two. From last season to this season, Jovanovic successfully made the transition from junior varsity to varsity.

Splitting the Munster defenders, Sophomore Josh Mayo uses skill and quickness to run the offense. Mayo was vital to the Pirates' success.

Challenging his Andean defender, Junior Pete Trgovich, Senior Igor Risteovski prepares to drive down the lane while Senior David Coughlin looks on. Risteovski's experience made him an important leader for the Pirates, especially during post-season play.

Using his body, Junior Lavell Cook penetrates toward the basket against Chesterton defender Senior Kyle Burkholder. Cook was an important asset for the Pirates, leading the team in scoring and steals.

Moving past Munster Senior John Jamich, Senior Igor Risteovski tries to create a scoring opportunity while Sophomore Jimmy Reitz guards his defender. Risteovski's ball handling and shooting skills led to many victories.

Making a point, long-time Head Coach Jim East fires up his team of Pirates. "Coach always made sure that we stayed focused and determined on our goals," commented Senior Captain Igor Risteovski.

Scrambling after the ball, Senior Geoff Lalic and Sophomore Jimmy Reitz both try to gain possession for the Bucs. As the men in the middle, Lalic and Reitz dominated the play around the basket.

Snagging another offensive board, Senior Karen Davis overpowers Portage Seniors Carly Ristich and Chrissy Kornacki. Davis' aggressiveness helped the Lady Pirates defeat the Indians on Senior Night.

Staying focused on the basket, Junior Marshay Jolly sets up for the perfect shot. Jolly earned the title of team MVP as well as MVP of the DAC this year.

Cheering on the girls, the Lady Pirates and their coaches give the players in the game some encouragement. Hearing applause made the girls push even harder.

Scrambling after the ball, Senior Kim Shapley prepares to gain possession. Shapley was one of two seniors who provided the young team with experience.

Splitting the Griffith defenders, Freshman Brittney Moore displays her ball handling skills. As the tallest girl on the team, Moore led the Lady Pirates with the most rebounds and blocked shots for the season.

Playing the game is one thing, but playing the game to win is another. This year's Girls' Basketball Team went above and beyond the call of duty. Playing with heart and determination day in and day out, the girls pulled out several wins, while turning heads in the process.

"We wanted people to respect us. The only way to do that was to play hard and win. I think we ended up surprising a lot of people," commented Senior Captain Kim Shapley.

Coming off a disappointing 2002 season, the girls had many obstacles to overcome. One such challenge was learning how to adapt to the new coaching staff. New Head Coach Bob Maicher came into the season optimistic that his team could stay competitive with the best that the area had to offer.

"We came into the season looking to establish ourselves as a dominant program in the region and to gain respect from all of our opponents," said Coach Maicher.

Although the girls ended the season with a 13-3 run, the team made sure that the motto "all work and no play" did not apply to them.

"No matter how hard practice was, we still had fun. The coaches knew that we played better that way," remarked Junior Jacqui Barsich.

Coach Maicher stated, "We wanted to have fun while we played. We had practices in the pool and sometimes we had practices where we didn't even touch a ball. It is a long season and we wanted to make sure that everyone stayed energized."

With many key victories, the Lady Pirates headed full steam into the sectional tournament. Resting on the first round of sectionals with a bye, the Pirates gave themselves the opportunity to play for the championship game after easily defeating DAC rival Portage in the second round. Although the Pirates played hard throughout the game, they fell short to the Valparaiso Vikings.

"We were disappointed that we lost," commented Coach Maicher. "We worked all year for this opportunity and we will keep working hard for next year. We don't feel satisfied just making it to the championship game."

Igor Risteviski

Coach Diane Roberts, who celebrated her 30th year of coaching Merrillville gymnastics this year, said "the team set its goals for the season early on." They practiced and performed with the same intensity from the beginning to the end, and there was "no letting up."

The Pirates had an unusually small team of only five girls, three with varsity experience. Roberts felt the team "far exceeded the expectations of the group when we met a 109.5 by midseason," even though critics had their doubts. The team also triumphed with first place victories at the Pirate Pride Invitational and the Lafayette Harrison Invitational, as well as a second place in the Duneland Athletic Conference. The two seniors, Kara Lux and Katie Tanis, were key assets as well as the captains for the Pirates. "It's hard to motivate your team, but as a captain it's your job," said Tanis. Roberts reported that the seniors "had to shoulder the burden of constantly being on top of their game in order for the team to be successful."

Despite this pressure, Lux and Tanis made their way down to the state meet. Although the two advanced to state individually, they were disappointed that the team did not advance. "I knew we did the best we could as a team, and that's all we could ask for," stated Lux. Tanis received a fifth place on the floor exercise. Roberts felt that "the smallness of the team was in and of itself unique, and it showed that every person was as important as the next." Roberts hopes incoming freshmen will continue to train hard in the off-season to contribute to next year's team. One incoming freshman, Mauna Jacobs, "will make an immediate impact on the team," reported Roberts.

Blocking off the vault, Senior Kara Lux begins to perform a "double twist." Lux was on the gymnastics team for all four years of her high school career.

GUTSY GYMNASTS

Performing a "stoop on," Senior Kara Lux puts both feet up and stands on the bottom uneven parallel bar. This season, Lux competed at the state competition once again.

Before the start of the meet, the team comes out for the "march in," which introduces the team players.

On her way up to the balance beam, Sophomore Lindsey Sharp is shown in the position of a "half-on." A sophomore, Sharp performed well for the team this season.

In the air, Senior Katie Tanis looks down at the balance beam so she can land her "3/4 turning pike jump" cleanly. Tanis finished fifth in the state this year on the floor.

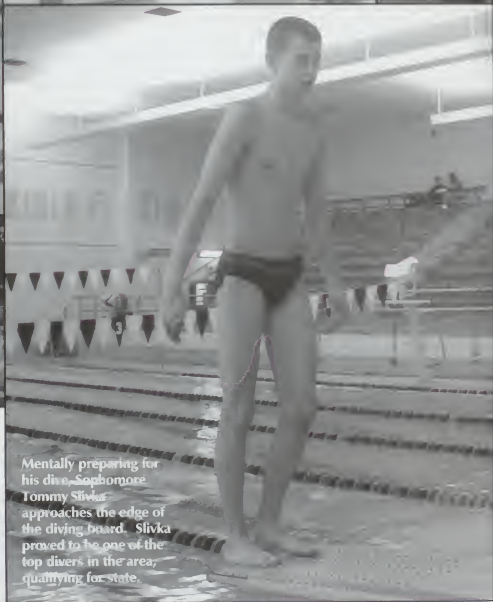

Racing down the lane, Senior Dave Rooda swims the 200 yard freestyle. Rooda competed as one of the team's top distance swimmers.

Twisting through the air, Freshman Scott Stephen performs a one and a half twist during a meet against Crown Point. Stephen added a new dimension to the team as a freshman.

Bombs Away! Primarily swimming backstroke, Senior Tim Balko attempts a forward one and a half dive. The injury-plagued dive team forced various swimmers to fill in during the course of the season.

Displaying perfect form, Senior Josh Diaz takes a breath during the 50 yard freestyle. Diaz decreased his times throughout the season.

Mentally preparing for his dive, Sophomore Tommy Slivka approaches the edge of the diving board. Slivka proved to be one of the top divers in the area, qualifying for state.

Coming up for air, Senior Michael Wadley races to the finish during his 200 yard individual medley. His strong 50 yard butterfly gave him an advantage over the competition.

Mentally preparing for a meet, Sophomore Aron Okichich and Senior Florian Aeschmann listen to music and read books. Swimmers prepare in their own ways before meets.

Flashing the lap number, Senior Edward Sablan encourages his fellow teammate during the 500 yard freestyle. This enables the swimmer to focus on the task at hand, rather than the lap number.

Chasing a swimmer down the lane, Coach Bryon Angerman points the swimmer in the right direction. Angerman always offers advice following a swim.

One stroke at a time, Junior Joseph Plukas concentrates on every stroke he takes during the 200 yard individual medley. Although injuries kept him sidelined for part of the season, Plukas played a vital role in the team's relays and the 100 yard breaststroke.

The clock is ticking. The water is splashing all over. The air is hot and muggy. The smell of chlorine lingers in the air. The stands are packed and the fans are screaming. The meet ends and the Boys' Swim Team has just won another meet.

The team worked to improve on last season's record. Meet after meet, the team tried, in more ways than one, to make this season a successful one. In order to achieve personal bests, many boys from the team worked out in the weight room daily, practiced every day and joined the Merrillville Aquatic Club.

The team came up with a motto for the season: "It's not bragging unless you can back it up." This motto helped motivate the boys to strengthen their swimming skills while enduring the long and intense 5 a.m. practices. These practices were definitely a key component in the team's success.

"Hopping into the freezing cold water at 5 a.m. was horrible, but the intense workouts definitely helped to make a major improvement," explained Senior Josh Diaz.

After losing some key leaders from last season, Seniors Tim Balko, Josh Diaz, Florian Aeschmann, Edward Sablan, David Rooda, Chris Adams, Paulo Laorden and Michael Wadley had to step up and be the new leaders. They have worked hard to improve.

Some of the team continues to practice to improve for next year. "Some seniors and underclassmen have joined Team N.I.K.E. [Northwest Indiana Kicking Express] in order to improve," Adams said. "Team N.I.K.E. is a team made up of some of the best swimmers in the area."

SPLASHY SWIMMING

Young Girls' Swim Team leaves a big splash

The 2003 Girls' Swimming Team had a lot of young faces. Although 12 out of the 32 members were freshmen, the senior members helped pull the group together.

"I'm going to miss all of the seniors. They helped everyone on the team get along," said Freshman Morgan Gill.

This year's team also had a number of freshmen that performed well. Freshmen Lisa Lumbarkoski, Morgan Gill and Denise Burney all enjoyed much success. Lumbarkoski and Gill each placed in the top 12 in their events at sectionals. They worked hard for their success.

"Many of the girls attended 6 a.m. practices, consisting of either swimming or working out, three days a week," said Head Coach Bryon Angerman.

The team ended their season with a fifth place finish at the Lake Central Sectional Competition. The top finishers for the Pirates were Senior Becky Stephen and Junior Ashley Jones. Stephen placed fifth in the 200 freestyle and fourth in the 500 freestyle. Jones placed fifth in diving just one place short of qualifying for the Regional Competition.

Although the team had no one advance to the State Competition, Coach Angerman was pleased with the girls' camaraderie.

Coach Angerman said, "The girls always put forth their maximum amount of effort. I was very pleased with the girls' performance. This was one of my most enjoyable seasons."

Tim Balko

Swimming in the 100 yard breaststroke, Freshman Morgan Gill shoots past her competition. Prior to entering high school, Gill participated in MAC. Participating in a meet, Junior Ashley Jones carefully executes her dive. According to her teammates, Jones had a successful season.

Waiting for their next race, Senior Rebecca Stephen, Junior Jeannelle Moreno, Senior Cynthia Gonzalez and Senior Brittney Stoica keep each other company. "I have all of my best friends in swimming. It wouldn't be the same without them," stated Gonzalez.

To let Freshman Morgan Gill know how many laps are left, the girls' team gathers at the end of the pool to cheer her on to the finish. The team always showed their support at each meet.

Freshman Lisa Lumbarkoski closes in on her competition during the butterfly portion of the 200 individual medley. Lumbarkoski was also one of the team's top breaststrokers.

Girls' Diving Senior Captain Julie Trimble pikes out of her dive in perfect form. Trimble also participated in swim relays.

Turning her head for a quick breath, Senior Co-Captain Rebecca Stephen finishes her event. Stephen competed mainly in 200 and 500 freestyle.

As she swims the breast stroke, Sophomore Sneza Nacovski races toward the end. This was Nacovski's first year in the Merrillville swim program.

Setting up for the shot, Junior Tommy Vechey thinks of a way to gain control over his opponent. Vechey will remain a co-captain in next year's season.

Using all his strength, Sophomore Gary Nelson holds down his opponent for a pin. Nelson improved his skills throughout the course of the year.

Between matches, wrestlers gather together to discuss previous duals and give advice for upcoming matches.

Getting warmed up, Senior Paul Kurczynski practices a side headlock on Senior Breon Harris. The side headlock was one of Kurczynski's favorite moves.

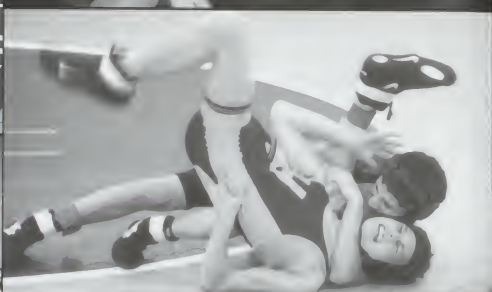

During an injury timeout, Freshman Dexter Larimore gets advice from new Coach David Maldonado and Assistant Coach Rob Petyko.

Taking a break, Junior Rob Wahlman and Senior Paul Kurczynski rest up for their next match. This behavior was commonly seen at all day tournaments.

Goofing around, Sophomore Doug Kurczynski and Juniors Jerry Williams and Tommy Vechey show how wrestlers have fun at meets.

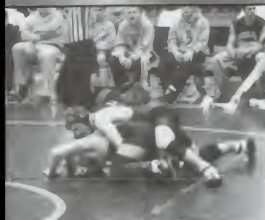

At their last sectional meet, Seniors Joey Jordan, Paul Kurczynski, Breon Harris and Clint Wimmer take a moment to pose for the camera.

Before the final round, the wrestlers lay as a team to show support while throwing in a laugh or two.

Trying to get the pin, Freshman Dexter Larimore squeezes with all his might to finish the match. Larimore was a key wrestler on this year's team.

Taking charge, Senior Breon Harris concentrates on winning his match. Harris was one of the four captains who remained dedicated throughout the entire season.

After receiving takedown points, Junior Rob Wahlman remains strong and in control over Highland's Ricky Hanft. Wahlman ended his season at semi-state, when he lost to the state runner up.

No one knew what to expect from the Wrestling Team this season. Along with their new head coach, David Maldonado, many changes were brought to the wrestling room.

"At the start of the season I didn't know the boys individually, so we set many team goals rather than individual ones," said Coach Maldonado.

Fortunately, the team adjusted well to the changes.

"He made us stronger by teaching us new drills and making our practices harder," stated Junior Tommy Vechey.

Individual improvements led the team to more victories. This year they had 11 wrestlers advance from sectionals to regionals. Feeling proud, their thoughts were strictly about upcoming matches.

However, Senior Breon Harris had different thoughts. After not making weight at sectionals, he saw his dream go down the drain.

"I was really disappointed and wished I could go back in time, but I know I'm still a champion," Harris said.

Wrestling fans will always remember what happened to Harris, but there are also positive things to remember. One example is Freshman Dexter Larimore. He turned many heads with his size and ability at such a young age. He walked onto the varsity team with ease and became a key wrestler.

Was it strictly talent or did it have to do with Maldonado's enthusiasm? Seniors Paul Kurczynski and Clint Wimmer believe their coach had good techniques to loosen up the team, especially the underclassmen.

"Changing coaches senior year was different, but we couldn't have asked for a better environment. We can thank Coach Maldonado for that," agreed Kurczynski and Wimmer.

Lindsey Gabriel and Lindsay Warus

With the loss of so many seniors, this year's Baseball Team knew that they had a long road ahead of them.

"Last year's group had a lot of maturity and innings behind them. This year, there's only one senior with any varsity experience," Head Coach Zac Wells stated. "I knew early on that we would struggle a little bit with the tough competition of the DAC, but our main goal was to improve and peak by the end of the season."

Another struggle that this team had to overcome was the fact that they had only one experienced pitcher.

As far as personal goals, Junior pitcher Jason Plys stated, "I try to pitch hard every game so that we can win."

Plys also stated that he relied on his team's strong defense and offense to help him out.

The highlight of this season seemed to be the triumph over the Valparaiso Vikings. Not only were the Vikings ranked number one in the state at the time, but also the Pirates had to come back from a deficit to pull out a victory.

Senior Eric Morris stated, "We had to reload from all the seniors that we lost, but we've gotten better every game."

In the first round of the post season, the Pirates defeated the Hobart Bricksies 6-3. In the second round the team faced the Crown Point Bulldogs. The game went into extra innings as the Pirates were defeated 4-3.

Monique Navarro

After making the catch, Senior Dan Kwiatkoski attempts to throw out the runner at third base. The catcher's job is to be alert and call the plays.

Marking his territory, Sophomore Jimmy Reitz calls out to catch a fly ball. Being only a sophomore, Reitz showed good team effort.

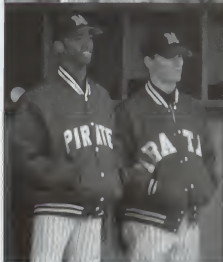

Waiting in the dugout, Seniors Steven Marcus and Nicholas Walter focus on the play during a close game. Team support plays a major role in a team's success.

Sliding in safely, Junior Jason Plys hustles to beat Chesterton's second baseman. Plys is one of the starting pitchers on the team.

Keeping an eye on the ball, Senior Eric Morris watches a bad pitch go by him. Morris is one of only seven seniors on this year's team.

Trying to keep the lead, Coach Zac Wells brings a few players together to discuss a strategy. This is Coach Wells' second year as head coach of the Pirates.

Keeping on eye on the ball, Senior Tony Stofko and Junior Ralieg Enslin wait for the spectacular shot. Stofko and Enslin were crucial players in the team's success throughout the season.

As he waits for his turn to putt, Senior Ryan Zurek focuses on his shot. Zurek was the team's most reliable player with the lowest scoring average.

Finishing in perfect form, Senior Chris Trapane drives the ball straight down the fairway. Trapane was known throughout the DAC for his long drives.

To avoid stepping in another player's line, Junior Shawn O'Keefe prepares to mark his ball. O'Keefe was a key player for the Pirates with the ability to post a low score in any round.

Chipping for the green, Senior Ryan Zurek aims directly at the pin. Zurek held the number one position for the Pirates through the entire season.

Eyeing his line, Junior Raleigh Ensenlawaits his ball to hit the bottom of the cup. Ensenlawaas a consistent player for the Pirates. Ensenlawa managed to shoot an 84 in Sectionals, although he did not advance.

By reading the slope of the green, Senior Tony Stofko prepares mentally to putt the ball. Stofko was the vocal leader, firing up the team before each match.

Even with one of the better teams in recent school history, the Pirates still faced stiff competition from the Duneland Conference, which proved to be one of the toughest conferences in Indiana. Another foe, Andean, came into the season ranked third in the state and provided the Pirates with the ongoing crosstown rivalry. However, despite the talent throughout the Region, the Golf Team proved it could compete with the best teams in weekend tournaments.

At the Rensselaer Invite, the Pirates shot a four-year best score of 322 and finished sixth, only a few shots behind the winner. A week later, the Pirates won the nine-hole Boone Grove Invite for the first time in school history and Senior Chris Trapane was awarded co-medalist honors for his performance. Trapane also provided the season with an even brighter highlight which included a one-under par round of 35.

A trio of seniors that included Ryan Zurek, Tony Stofko and Trapane led the team throughout the season. Zurek anchored the team at the number one position with consistency and also besting nine holes at 37. Stofko proved a worthy supporting cast for Zurek and Trapane, coming through with 18-hole scores in the low 80s. Juniors Shawn O'Keefe and Raleigh Ensenlawa give the team hope for the future and proved that they could hold their own throughout the season. O'Keefe and Ensenlawa both managed to top the number three varsity position, one that seemed to be cursed all season. O'Keefe performed under pressure with a team best of 78 in an 18-hole match as well as a score of 39 during the season.

In sectionals, the Pirates were expected to advance in the top three positions. The team had many troubles traversing the course as high scores and good competition stopped their drive for the sectional trophy short. The only bright spot of the day was Ryan Zurek, who shot a 79 to move on individually to the regional competition.

SLAMMIN' SOFTBALL

Young team has attitude and determination to win

"SOFTBALL, SOFTBALL, SOFT-BALL!" PNN and Mrs. Debbie Klippel, Secretary to the Assistant Principals, announced this ever so famous expression just before Christmas Break. Conditioning and open gym, where prospective players go for undirected practices, for the team started in early January, during finals week, to pump the team into shape for an arduous season ahead of them. Girls dragged themselves out of bed at five o'clock in the morning a few days a week for two months before the first game.

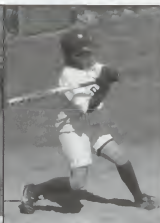

"We would run stairs and a mile almost every practice for three weeks; it was really hard and exhausting," Senior Monique Navarro said. "I think that you really have to love the game in order to show up and it made us stronger through dedication."

While having fun, the girls focused on their game throughout the season. Junior Heidi Hammond recalled, "The best moment of our season was when [Senior Tiffany] T Smith kept putting her head in the mud. It was hilarious!" However, the season was not all fun, no work. Hammond said, "The team unity was definitely an up for the season, we just needed to achieve our goal, improvement." Overall, the team wanted to do their best; that is all that could be expected. The team did indeed improve. As Junior Kristine Paskash said, "After losing to LaPorte 12-0, it felt really good to come back and beat them the next time we played them 6-0." With hard work, comes pleasure.

When compared to teams like Valparaiso, Lake Central, and Portage, Merrillville's team record of 9-19 was an improvement from the past two years. More wins for one year is always a good sign. With new pitching and old hitting, the team still managed to survive a rough year.

Keeping her hands inside the zone, Sophomore Gina Angotti prepares to turn on the inside pitch. Angotti played various roles on varsity this year including designated player, outfielder and back-up catcher.

Starting catcher Junior Kris Paskash, takes off her helmet and prepares to back up a throw at first base. The catcher's job is to not only call the pitches, but also to back up throws and tell teammates where to throw.

Trying to advance her teammate to the next base, Sophomore Brittany Huish squares around for the bunt. This year was Huish's second year on the varsity team, and she was also the starting centerfielder.

Ready to attack, Senior Tiffany Smith waits patiently for the ball. Smith batted in the power hitter spot consistently throughout the year.

Waiting for the umpire to make the call, Senior Desiree McDaniel holds the tag at third base against a Michigan City opponent. The Pirates defeated the Michigan City Wolves both times they faced each other.

Stretching to catch the ball, Junior Jennifer Mason gets the out at first. Mason, a three-year varsity player, was the starting first baseman.

Determined to pitch a strike, Freshman Heather Zurek releases the ball. Zurek, the only freshman on the varsity team, was one of the two main pitchers this season.

SOFTBALL 57

Hitting is one of the three major aspects of softball. With determination in her eyes, Senior Monique Navarro attacks the ball.

Calling the 2003 season a learning experience is a strong understatement. Led by the region's best singles player, Senior Captain Casady Pruitt, the young Pirates had many things to learn in a short amount of time. With Pruitt prepping herself for another state appearance, she and co-captain Senior Kathleen Sztot had many obstacles to overcome. The only two seniors on the team had to work hard to leave a lasting, positive impression on a young team.

"It was evident that we were young, but the girls adjusted well to the lineup changes and that will help them next season," commented Pruitt.

From the end of last year to the beginning of this year, the Lady Pirates worked hard to prepare themselves.

"We had several girls that practiced and played in the off season and we all conditioned before the season started," said Pruitt.

After a state appearance two years ago, the Lady Pirates strived to return to the level of play they knew they were capable of achieving.

"Going to state as a sophomore was a great experience for me. I just wanted the rest of the team to have the same feeling," remarked Sztot.

As for the future of the Pirates, the young, energetic team seems to have nothing but hope for next year. With the experience of this year ingrained in their games, players like Freshmen Callie Lucas and Morgan Zellers and Sophomores Katie Coleman and Katelyn Pruitt seem ready and willing to take the challenge of the years ahead. Even with the heart-breaking 2-3 loss in the finals of sectionals to Andean, the Pirates seemed undisturbed.

"I can't wait for next year," said Lucas. "I've learned so much this year while having fun. I can only see myself and the team getting better."

After slicing a forehand, Junior Pauline Katsouros strives to win a point against Valparaiso. Katsouros teamed with Senior Kathleen Sztot at number one doubles to provide experience for the Pirates.

Deciding where to place the ball, Senior Kathleen Sztot bends for the forehand volley. Sztot was awarded the team's Sportsmanship award.

Lunging for the ball, Freshman Callie Lucas reaches for the forehand during a point. Lucas teamed with Sophomore Katelyn Pruitt to win the Frankfort Invitational.

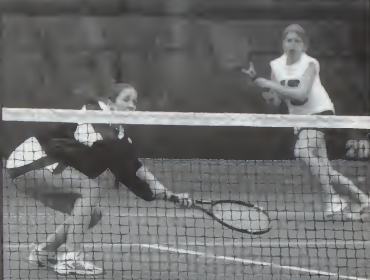

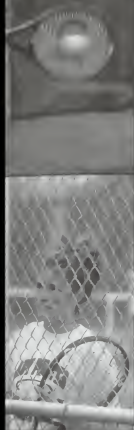

TOP-NOTCH TENNIS

Young team gains experience for the future

Attempting a victory, Senior Casady Pruitt aims for the backhand winner. After the team's loss in Sectionals, Pruitt continued to advance into the State tournament.

Going for the ace, Freshman Morgan Zellers serves to her opponent. Only a freshman, Zellers won the team's Most Improved award.

Working together, Sophomore Katie Coleman reaches for the volley while partner Freshman Morgan Zellers moves with anticipation along the baseline. Coleman and Zellers adjusted with ease to line-up changes.

Determined to win, Senior Casady Pruitt slams a forehand across the court to her opponent. Pruitt was named the team's MVP and also the Duneland Conference MVP.

Slapping hands, Junior Pauline Katsouros and Senior Kathleen Szot celebrate a successful point. "We are good at making sure we each stay focused," said Szot.

GIRLS' TENNIS 59

"We have one of the most powerful and hardest working teams that I have had in my six years as coach," commented Head Coach Jim Johnston about this year's boys' Track Team.

The team is a blend of strong veterans and upstart rookies. The team captains, Seniors Jared Byczko and Joseph Frasca, were pleased to be in charge of such a large team.

Byczko commented, "Usually there are three or four captains, but this year there are only two. As captain, I'm proud to be in charge of over 90 guys."

Before their season began, the team practiced vital skills, such as starts off a block, relay exchanges, and running techniques, to prepare for this season. The team also went through an extensive training regimen that included 1000 sit-ups in one practice. Coach Johnston described this as "total body conditioning."

Despite the disappointment of losing sectionals as a team, many individuals advanced to regionals. Senior Aaron Powell advanced in the pole vault; Juniors Brandon Mosley in the 100 meter high hurdles, 300 meter intermediate hurdles and pole vault; Jerry Williams in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles; Trent Harris in the shot put; David Morrow in the long jump; Clifford Cook in the 800 meter run and Ricardo Hernandez in the 3200 meter run. In addition, Freshmen Antoine Brown advanced in the 100 meter dash, Carlton Hoyles in the high jump and Dexter Larimore in the shot put. Also advancing were the 4x100, 4x400, and 4x800 meter relay teams. The 4x100 meter relay team advanced to state, along with Powell.

Frasca stated, "I looked forward to this year. When most of the pieces came together it was a good year."

Ed Sablan and Mary Kate Lucas

Warming up for the shot put at the regional meet, Freshman Dexter Larimore follows through on his throw. Larimore finished in fourth place; however, only the top three competitors advanced to state.

Clearing the bar with ease, Freshman Carlton Hoyles displays his jumping abilities in the high jump and clears a height of 6 feet 4 inches at the sectional meet, qualifying for regionals. He cleared a height of 6 feet at the regional meet and was unable to advance to state.

Concentrating on the task at hand, Junior Ricardo Hernandez maintains his pace in the 4x800 meter relay. Hernandez also competed in the 3200 meter run at the regional meet.

After finishing the third leg of the 4x400 meter relay, Senior Captain Jared Byczko watches Junior David Morrow finish the race. Byczko also competed in the 100 meter, 200 meter and 400 meter dashes throughout the season.

Striding out during the fourth leg of the 4x800 meter relay, Junior Clifford Cook looks to keep his team in the race. The relay team placed at the sectional meet and advanced to regionals.

TRIUMPHANT TRACK

Strong veterans and upstart rookies unite to form a great combination

Spinning in the disc, Junior Trent Harris puts his whole body behind launching the discus. Harris threw a personal best of 52 feet 10 inches in the shot put at the sectional meet and advanced to regionals.

With his drive knee in tact, Senior Aaron Powell clears the bar in the pole vault. Powell was a DAC champion and he advanced to state.

With determination in their eyes, the 4x100 meter relay team displays their desire to compete in the state meet after placing second at regionals. The team consisted of Senior Joseph Frasca, Juniors Jerry Williams and David Morrow, Sophomore Antoine Brown and Juniors Vincent Cole and Alec Reeder.

Extending his legs to obtain maximum distance, Junior David Morrow soars over the sand pit. He led the team with a jump of 21 feet in the long jump.

Driving up his knee to clear the hurdle, Junior Brandon Mosley follows through with his trail leg. Mosley placed in the 110 meter high hurdles, 300 meter intermediate hurdles and pole vault at regionals.

Holding the school record in the 400 relay, Sophomore Stephanie Neville was 8th in the state as a freshman. She also sprints in the 100 and 200m races.

After qualifying for the state tournament as a sophomore, Junior Lindsey Solomon returned this year to become sectional champ in the shot put.

With a high jump height of 4'8", Junior Nicole Stompfor clears the bar with ease.

The top point scorer for the Pirates for the last four years, Senior Alysia Fortney competes in the long jump, the 100m and 200 m runs, and the 400m and 1600m relay. Fortney and her teammates in the 400 relay have been state medalist for the last three years.

In the discus, Junior Diana Prentoski throws 92'6", and in the shot put, she throws 34'9". Her throws at sectionals fell short and she placed fifth.

Sprinting to the finish line, Freshman Tamara Gaddy qualified for the regionals in the 100m and 200m. She and three others qualified for state in the 400 relay. Gaddy also ran in middle school and broke two records there.

Besides competing in the pole vault, Freshman Stephanie Pavlish runs in 100 hurdles. Pavlish, who jumped 8'6", joined the boys' team and competed for them.

The reigning sectional champ in discus is Senior Kelly Halcarz. Halcarz, a senior, throws the discus 110'5".

At the start of the season, the Merrillville girls' Track Team was ready to go. They had been working hard and preparing for the season months before the real season had even started. "In order to improve for our upcoming season, we worked out and got into shape to prepare for the season," Senior Pauline Petruch said. They were determined to do their best and make it to state this year. After losing many key seniors last year, the team knew they had their work cut out for this season. The team had to work hard and try their best in order to live up to last year's standards. With seven seniors on this year's team, senior leadership was an important aspect to the team. The seniors stepped up and really showed their talent this year. There were many improvements to the team this year.

"Two of the key people on this year's team were Junior Lindsey Solomon and Senior Alysia Fortney. They both stepped up and were consistent at winning their meets throughout the entire season," said Junior Diana Prentoski.

Despite all their hard work and efforts this season, the team did not advance to the state meet this year. Although the team did not make it to state, there were certain individuals that made it to this state competition. In the 400-meter relay, Seniors Alysia Fortney, Nikisha Jefferson, Candice Woods, Sophomores Stephanie Neville and Dana Bolden, and Freshman Tamara Gaddy all advanced to state. In the 1600-meter relay Seniors Nikisha Jefferson, Alysia Fortney, Pauline Petruch, Sophomore Dana Bolden and Freshman Sarah Vaughn all advanced to the state competition. Senior Alysia Fortney advanced to state for the 200-meter dash, Senior Pauline Petruch advanced for the 800-meter run, and Freshman Stephanie Pavlish advanced for the pole vault.

GIRL'S TRACK

CHARISMATIC CHEERLEADERS

Chanting with Pirate Pride, the MHS squads pick up the crowd

They may not make touchdowns or shoot three-pointers, but they do make a difference in the game. Cheerleading took on a whole new meaning here at MHS. In addition to cheering at games, the squad attended an intense four-day camp, held clinics for elementary and junior high students and competed in two competitions during the year. In both competitions, the team earned first place in the co-ed division and was the highest scoring team overall.

Senior Mary Kate Lucas explained, "We didn't have a lot of time to perfect the routine, so it felt good to finish in first place."

In the beginning of the year, the cheerleaders were off to a rough start, but things soon got better. This was the first year that sophomores could try out for the purple varsity squad. With this new change, the junior varsity squad was dropped from the program. Some upperclassmen were unsure about the transformation.

"I thought it was a really bad idea. I don't think sophomores are mature enough to handle varsity level material," stated Senior Diana Hughes.

With 14 girls and 5 boys on board for football season, the squad wowed the crowd with competition-like routines. After the squad had been working together for a while, some opinions about the alteration had changed.

"Now I think it's a good idea. It's fun because we could do more advanced stunts with the extra people, but I still don't think the sophomores took it as seriously as they should have," explained Senior Diana Hughes.

By the time basketball season rolled around, the team had to go back to its smaller size of 8 girls and 4 boys. The slightly modified squad still thrilled the crowd with its performances.

The cheerleaders did very well this year, especially considering they had to deal with camp, clinics, squad changes and competitions. And who says cheerleading is not a sport?

Cora Gray

Supporting the basketball team, the Pirates' mascot, Sophomore Doug Kurczynski, shows his spirit on the floor. Kurczynski was crucial in exciting the fans.

Balancing his weight, Junior Ben Graves shows his skills atop his squad members. Graves' strength and attitude were key parts in the team's success.

Flying high, Sophomore Trisha Lakatos, Junior Tara Schaab, and Senior Diana Hughes perform skilled dismounts.

With heads held high, Juniors Ashley Dallas, Tara Schaab and Jodi Suggs chant along with their team. Due to the new squad formation, the girls dedicated practice time to perfecting chants.

Senior Theresa Schubert shows school spirit while performing the school song. Schubert was named Most Valuable Player by her teammates. "I was surprised because I felt that many of the girls on the team deserved it," stated Schubert.

Hoping for crowd involvement, Seniors Diana Hughes, Christine Aloia, and Junior Tara Schaab hit extensions to show their signs.

With her head held high, Senior Jessica Wieneke led her team through its season as one of the varsity captains.

With poise, Sophomores Nicole Steriovski and Melanie Maple, Senior Trevy Ramos, Freshman Ebony Holly and Sophomore Danielle Nikrin hit their final pose after performing their "Diamonds" competition routine. With this routine, the girls took eighth at the state competition.

Stylish moves spice up half-time shows

Striking a pose, Freshman Ebony Holly and Sophomore Erica Fizer wait to make their move on the next count.

Dashing between each other, the girls move to their next place in the dance. Timing was critical to execute a perfect dance.

Showing off their dancing ability, the girls perform a routine they learned at a summer camp in June. They have practiced hard to perfect the routine.

Even though dancing on the sidelines gives little room to perform, Junior Tiffany McCauley and Freshman Lindsey Alvarez still give it their all. Executing sharp and fast movements is a necessity during pregame.

Sophomore Brittany Hamlin flashes a bright smile that can be seen throughout her whole performance. Smiling big is a must for all of the dancers.

The girls get ready to leap through their teammates on the floor. Precision is important in executing the routine.

Sophomore Ashly Janovick involves the audience as she moves closer to the bleachers.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE WEEK

Coach Jeff Yelton congratulates Senior Joey Frasca after Frasca was named Mr. Football during the Homecoming game. Frasca commented, "I was privileged because my teammates voted for me and I know many deserved it, but I was honored to have it." Frasca, middle line-backer and a captain, also received the Mr. ZIP award at the sports banquet.

Competing for the best float in the Homecoming Parade, senior students work together to win first place. Senior Dyann Segvich said, "It felt good to win best float since we put so much work into it." After coming in last place for the entire week's spirit points, winning first for the float gave the seniors a little bit of satisfaction.

HOMECOMING VICTORY CAPS OFF WEEK OF MEMORIES

Filled with spirit and excitement, Homecoming Week left MHS students with memories that will be remembered for years to come. Each class bonded together as they competed for points throughout Spirit Week. Students could be seen roaming the halls in hats, pajamas, college logos, class color apparel, and in purple and white, or red, white and blue. "My favorite Spirit Day during Homecoming Week was college apparel day because I borrowed a Purdue sweatshirt and kept it!" laughed Junior Heidi Hammond. The Junior Class earned bragging rights with a first place finish.

On Thursday, the sirens blared during the Homecoming parade as the floats drove by with the theme "Tame the Wolves." The Senior Class grabbed the award for the best float. The Goofy Games also provided fun and laughs with events including Twister, Pie-Eating contest, three-legged race, and the Pudding Slide. Despite the rain, participants finished all events and the Senior Class and Junior Class tied for first place.

Friday night, the crowd cheered for the football team as the Bucs demolished Michigan City 35-0. Halftime activities entertained spectators as Mr. Football, Senior Joey Frasca, was announced and the Homecoming Queen candidates stood with their escorts on the field. The nominees named to Court were Seniors Domonique Garibay, Diana Hughes, Nicole Sparger, Fontaine Stegall, Jamie Sweeney and Kathleen Szot. 2001 Queen Tiffany Allemen placed the crown on Stegall, who commented, "It feels good that people considered me, out of so many other girls, to represent them as their Homecoming Queen. I was very surprised."

Casady Pruitt

After announcing the 2002 Homecoming Queen, Senior nominees Jamie Sweeney, Domonique Garibay, Diana Hughes, Nicole Sparger and Kathleen Szot are all smiles as they pose with Queen Fontaine Stegall. The girls were chosen by fellow students to be put on Court.

Showing their spirit, student-fans cheer the Pirates on to victory in the Homecoming game against Michigan City. Triumph over the Wolves put an end to a great Spirit Week.

After receiving her crown, Homecoming Queen Senior Fontaine Stegall smiles through her surprise. Stegall was announced as Queen at halftime of the Homecoming game.

"It feels good that people considered me, out of so many other girls, to represent them as their Homecoming Queen. I was very surprised."
Fontaine Stegall

"I really did not expect it at all. I can think of tons of other girls worthy of being nominated for queen."
Kathleen Szot

Participating in the goofy games during Spirit Week, Sophomore Kris Simonovski enjoys himself in a game of Twister with fellow students. Despite the rainy weather, many students came to show their spirit.

Taking a break from dancing, Seniors Igor Risteovski and Ryan Zurek escape from the excitement of the dance floor. They both enjoyed the refreshments provided in the hospitality room.

Dancing the night away, Seniors Christine Aloia and Chris Trapane gaze into each other's eyes at the Homecoming Dance. When asked about the dance, Trapane replied, "I had a great night at our last Homecoming."

It was cool

Enjoying a moment in the spotlight, Seniors Fontaine Stegall and Joey Frasca share a dance in the Hall of Flags at the Homecoming Dance. Every year the Homecoming Queen gets the privilege of dancing with Mr. Football. Stegall and Frasca each received these prestigious honors.

Busting a move, Seniors Brittany Williams, Cora Gray, Jared Byczko, Eric Nolan, Peter Brasovan, Diana Hughes and Eric Morris groove to the beat of the music. These friends never hesitate to have a good time on the dance floor. Morris described, "It was fun taking care of business on the dance floor after taking care of business on the football field against Michigan City."

DANCING THE "KNIGHT" AWAY

After a triumphant victory over the Michigan City Wolves, the students of MHS celebrated by dancing the "knight" away. The Hall of Flags was decorated like a fairy tale to fit the theme "A Knight to Remember." The dance lasted from 7 to 10 p.m. Student government sponsored the homecoming dance as the members of this organization woke up early and decorated the hall for that evening.

Students enjoyed the music provided by disc jockey Kiss FM. Songs were dedicated for Mr. Football Senior Joey Frasca and the Homecoming Queen Senior Fontaine Stegall as they danced together. Also the Homecoming Court, Seniors Domonique Garibay, Diana Hughes, Nicole Sparger, Fontaine Stegall, Jamie Sweeney and Kathleen Szot created memories by having a dance with their dates.

Senior Christine Aloia explained, "The music was a lot of fun. Dancing with my friends at our last Homecoming Dance is something I will always remember."

In between dancing, the students took a break in the Senior Citizens Center. Decorated to match the theme, the center had refreshments for everyone to enjoy. When the dance was over, couples went their own way to enjoy the rest of the evening. Before leaving, each couple was given a gift to remember their night.

Mary Kate Lucas

Standing in the spotlight, Freshmen Nathan Chandler and Melanie Mangrum smile at one another. Before the night was over, the two did not miss the chance to dance with each other.

Clapping to the music, Senior Michelle Phillips enjoys her last Homecoming Dance at Merrillville High School. Everyone clapped along to the Cha Cha Slide as Phillips leads the way. The DJ from Kiss FM played new hits and old favorites.

Taking a break from the action, Seniors Nicole Sparger, Casady Pruitt, Kathleen Szot, Christine Aloia, Junior Heidi Hammond and Senior Jamie Sweeney enjoy the Homecoming festivities. Nicole Sparger commented about the dance, "Homecoming was so much fun because I got to hang out with my date and also party with the girls at the dance."

After a few dances, Sophomore Lindsey Nosich and her date, Hobart Freshman Robert Koritko, relax and enjoy each another's company.

Caught by surprise, Freshman Andrew James flashes a smile while his date, Freshman Rachel Hayes, looks on as they enter the dance.

Unwinding by the candlelight, Freshmen Marisol Tirado and Eric Vazquez hold hands across the table before returning to the dance floor.

Thanks To Nothing band members, Freshmen Justin Floyd, Colin McDonald, Joey Mireles and Donald Toth, give students a reason to move onto the dance floor. The band performed at the Valentine's Dance.

For the second year in a row, freshmen and sophomores had the chance to make their own memories at the Valentine's Dance. Normally a chance to make the night romantic with a date, this year's dance allowed groups of friends and singles the opportunity to enjoy what the dance had to offer.

One aspect of the dance that excited the underclassmen was that this dance was only for them.

Freshman Cambria Hollingsworth said, "The Valentine's Dance gave freshmen and sophomores more of a chance for something of their own since prom is only for juniors and seniors."

One change that made this year's Valentine's Dance different from previous years was that a live band accompanied the typical DJ. The band, Thanks To Nothing, made up of all freshmen, played five songs for their peers.

Freshman Janel Barsich commented, "I loved the band because they did a good job entertaining everyone and they had a lot of energy."

The Valentine's Dance also had a taste of prom. Students who attended the dance selected Freshman Jessica Gallinatti and Sophomore Amber Jimenez as queens of the night.

"I never imagined that I would be queen. I was surprised and excited," said Gallinatti.

As Cupid's arrow struck the hearts of the underclassmen, the Valentine's Dance proved to be a successful night for the FCCLA.

"The FCCLA students worked hard every day to put together the dance for the students," said FCCLA sponsor Carol VonBehren. "I'm very proud of everyone."

Senior Justin Singer and Freshman Angelique Gruchmal dance the electric slide.

AT THE VALENTINE'S DANCE

As he drives to the basket, Senior Igor Risteovski rushes past Chesterton defender Erik Babcock. Risteovski was no stranger to pain. He played with injuries, such as jammed fingers, many times before, and this did not stop him from playing in the Homecoming Game.

Showing some skin, "The Mystery Man" struts his stuff during the Mr. Senior Hot Legs competition. After overwhelming applause, Senior Michael Hill won.

Anticipating the crowning of the Homecoming Queen are Sophomore Amber Goodman, Freshmen Brianna Yarnell, Rachel Hayes, Jessica Gallinatti and April Echols.

BASKETBALL HOMECOMING

Basketball Homecoming is an event that students always look forward to. It brings Spirit Week, Homecoming Court, the Senior Hot Legs Competition and the basketball game. However, this year was a little bit different. Because of a new student government rule, there was almost no Homecoming Court.

"It goes against IASC [Indiana Association of Student Councils] policies," Student Government President Jenny Heidler explained, "which states that it [Homecoming Court] does not benefit the entire school, but rather the 50 or so senior girls who want to be crowned."

After some last minute preparations, Homecoming Week was kicked off February 3 as students wore their favorite college team apparel. The remainder of the week included Crazy Hair Day, Mismatch Day, Class Color Day, and as always, Purple and White Day.

At halftime, the Homecoming Court took the floor. The crowd waited anxiously as the announcement of the Queen was announced. The four senior girls on court were Chivon Bonilla, Trevy Ramos, Kathleen Szot and Candace Woods. Szot was crowned queen.

Kathleen Szot said, "It really caught me off guard, but I was happy."

After the announcement of Homecoming Queen, the Senior Hot Legs Competition commenced. Escorted by the cheerleaders, ten senior boys strutted out with brown paper bags covering their faces. Each boy wore his own unique outfit and had a chance to convince the crowd that he should be the new Mr. Senior Hot Legs. In the end, the crowd selected Michael Hill.

"I was thankful for everyone who cheered and booed for me because it helped me win," Hill said.

Despite the festivities, the Basketball Team was unable to pull out a victory. After being ahead by 17 points, the Pirates were unable to stop Chesterton's rally in what turned out to be a devastating 63-60 loss.

"It was a tough loss, especially since we were in first place in the DAC prior to that game," Senior Igor Risteovski stated, "but we beat them when it mattered — sectionals."

Monique Navarro

Surprised by the announcement of her name as Homecoming Queen, Senior Kathleen Szot is still in disbelief about the whole experience. Along with the crowd, Seniors Candace Woods, Trevy Ramos and Chivon Bonilla cheered on their fellow classmate.

Wooing the crowd as he struts his stuff, Senior Jacob Appleton competes for the title of Mr. Senior Hot Legs. Students go to extremes to win the desired title.

I wanted to do something stupid and funny for senior year, but I didn't do anything to prepare.
-Senior Jacob Appleton

It happened really fast, and I really wasn't expecting it, so it really caught me off guard.
-Senior Kathleen Szot

To the enjoyment of their screaming fans, Seniors Vince Torres, Mary Kate Lucas and Michael Hill lead the way for the rest of the contestants in the Senior Hot Legs contest. All of the seniors dressed creatively to win over the fans for the coveted title.

Using his height to his advantage, Junior Bojan Jovanovic struggles with Chesterton's Mike Yagelski to grab the rebound. Although the team tried its best to win the Homecoming Game, they were defeated in the end.

In addition to giant Twister, students participated in the hula-hoop contest, the three-legged race, the pie eating contest and the pudding slide.

With accuracy, Senior Jennifer Reid weighs a class's food donation. In all, MHS collected two buses of food for local food pantries. With Mrs. Rosellen Kozel taking charge of this year's Student Government, members also sold bus munchies, sponsored a teacher appreciation breakfast, organized the Christmas Wish List, went Christmas caroling at a nursing home, sponsored the Buddy Pictures and raised money for Riley Children's Hospital. Throughout these events, Student Government collaborated with other school clubs such as STAND, Quest and Natural Helpers.

During the annual Thanksgiving Food Drive, Seniors John Woods and Cliff Golon haul 50 pound bags of flour. Classes participated in the annual Thanksgiving food drive in order to collect food for local pantries. The fourth hour class that donated the most pounds of food won a free pizza party for their class. Mr. Jim Johnston's fourth hour Autoshop class won with a total donation of over 600 pounds.

There are so many activities and functions sponsored by the Student Government. I became president because I wanted to take part in all activities that we sponsor and make sure the students were taken care of.

This organization, under the sponsorship of Mr. Gerry Kasarda, assisted PNN in recognizing outstanding staff and worked with the Key Club to support the prom at the Senior Citizen Center.

GETTING INVOLVED IN THE COMMUNITY

Working as a team, Freshman Jeremy Dillingsley, Mrs. Amber Baron and Freshman Amr Latif stuff garbage and dead grass into the bag. Getting rid of the dead grass and dirty garbage helped to improve the looks of the school.

It was fun helping out at Campus Cleanup. Picking up cigarette butts and other disgusting garbage made me feel good about helping clean my school.

-Senior Jenny Heidler

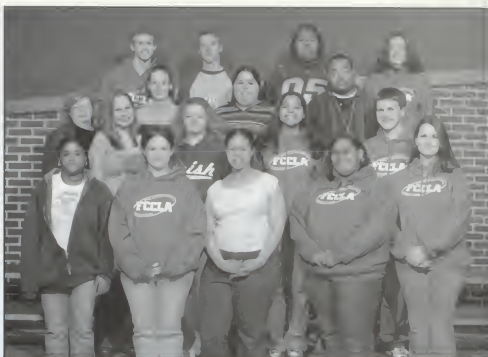

If it weren't for the stench, Senior Tim Balko might even enjoy helping to clean up the campus. Balko found a muffler along the fence on the west side of the property.

To clean the high school grounds, Key Club Sponsor Mrs. Carrie Bedwell and Senior Justin Crech rake up dead grass. Mrs. Bedwell said, "We have a beautiful school that we are very proud of. The Key Club felt that it was important to give the campus a facelift after the winter months."

GETTING ACTIVELY

INVOLVED

As students wait for their turns to donate blood, they find other things to talk about. Seniors Breon Harris, Chris Garza and Jon Gutierrez are just three of the 132 students and teachers who donated. Gutierrez stated, "We discussed the good that will come from the pain that we experienced."

During the blood drive in December, 25 students helped the volunteers who donated blood. Seniors Casady Pruitt and Kathleen Szot showed that they are proud to be donors.

"This year has been a great learning experience. We have had many great projects and activities that allowed us to learn so many important techniques. Many should get involved next year."

We had a great crowd, great performances, great food, and next year should be even better."

The MHS Jazz Band, Pierce STAND members, salsa dancers, Indian dancers, poetry readers, Macedonian dancers and a Scandinavian children's choir were all part of the show. The dinner was in the Pierce Cafetorium March 21. Guest Senior Florian Aeschimann, a native of Switzerland, said, "The show was great and it was definitely worth $10 and a Friday night."

SADD & STAND

SERVE TO ENLIGHTEN STUDENTS ABOUT LIFE'S CHOICES

After months of morning and after-school rehearsals, STAND members Senior Nicole Sparger, Freshman Joseph Mireles, Junior Gabe Ziegler and Junior Ricardo Hernandez perform a skit on racism. Students wrote and performed several scripts on a variety of "-isms" like sexism, racism, ablism and even heterosexism at the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) Convention. The students participated in diversity workshops, listened to motivational speakers and watched other schools perform skits. This year, the ADL leaders were so impressed with STAND that they honored the students with copies of a book by one of the speakers from the convention.

The best part about being in SADD is being out there and able to meet and associate with a bigger variety of people.

-Junior Ricardo Hernandez

I participated in many community service projects. Community service hours look great on the college application. I love being in the diversity club because I get to meet people of different cultures and ethnicity.

-Senior Waricha Watthanapha

While helping to bring the less fortunate some necessities, Counselor and Sponsor Mr. Danny Lackey and Freshman Cveta Lozevski pack up clothes at the clothing drive sponsored by STAND. STAND members participate in several community service activities, earning them recognition as community leaders. As Freshman Joey Mireles said, "Not only do you get community service hours, but you also get a lot of memories! STAND is a club for those interested in diversity and who want to have fun." The club members meet once a week and often discuss current racial events.

To win a $25 gift card from Best Buy, a group of SADD members battle on the court during the 3-on-3 tournament. Seventeen teams went to the upstairs gym November 1 to help promote Red Ribbon Week and to compete. Sponsor Ms. Erin Mulloy said, "The event was supposed to be an opportunity for students to have fun without the pressure of drugs or alcohol." This year, the winning team consisted of Sophomore Curtis Wyatt, Senior Carl Hurd and Sophomore Anthony Dennis.

Getting the next play, Senior Jon Gutierrez listens carefully to the teams coaches Seniors Eric Nolan, Lindsey Gabriel and Igor Risteveski. The game is a time for students and teachers to relax and take a break from their busy school schedules.

Showing off their spirit, the senior cheerleaders, Jamie Sweeney, Mary Kate Lucas, Diana Hughes, Christine Aloia, Jill Porter, Monique Navarro, Cora Gray, Casady Pruitt, Kathleen Szot, and Stephanie Bigelow take time to pose for the camera. The girls took time and made t-shirts and signs to help cheer the seniors to victory.

Refusing to acknowledge the teachers, the students hold newspapers in front of their faces while the teachers are being announced. This is a time when students can trash-talk the teachers and not get in trouble for it. "Being around my friends and the best superfans in Merrillville's history is something I will never forget. When we hid behind the newspapers while the faculty was being announced was a good way to end our senior year," stated Senior Dan Sierra.

SENIORS MAKE MEMORIES

Every year without fail, trash-talking fills the halls of MHS in preparation for the annual Senior-Faculty Basketball game. This year was no different as the Class of 2003 and the faculty squared off in a basketball game to earn bragging rights. After last year's success for the seniors, this year's class attempted to make it two years in a row. However, led by the skills of Mr. Don Baron, Mr. Todd Roberts, and former MHS player Mr. Zac Wells, the faculty outplayed the seniors on their way to a 32-19 victory.

Despite the outcome, the game provided a chance for the seniors to bond as their time to leave MHS was drawing near. Students held up the familiar newspapers during faculty line-up introductions and the senior coaches Igor Risteveski, Lindsey Gabriel and Eric Nolan attempted to guide their fellow seniors on the court. Risteveski even played the part by wearing Head Boys' Basketball Coach Jim East's famous purple jacket.

"Although we played hard, the unity of the teachers and their well established zone defense hurt us," Risteveski commented after the game. "It also didn't help that we didn't get too many calls and that we couldn't hit the broad side of a barn."

At the half, senior dance team members and cheerleaders performed for one last time on the basketball floor.

"It was a great feeling to go out and perform in front of the school again. I especially enjoyed cheering with my best friends," commented Senior Cheerleader Christine Aloia.

Although the Senior-Faculty Basketball game was memorable for the Senior Class, the faculty had the final word this year.

"It didn't hurt that the seniors were only worried about offense and not defense," Mr. Baron noted. "Last time I checked there are two aspects to the game."

Casady Pruitt and Igor Risteveski

...BUT TEACHERS PREVAIL

Determined to dominate after "talking the talk," Mr. Don Baron and Senior Aleks Sotiroski crave to "walk the walk." Both Mr. Baron and Sotiroski went on PNN and cut the opposing team down with personal remarks, even after the game. Mr. Baron even peaked his "Top Ten List" with the faculty's victory over the seniors.

Hearing the screams from the cheerleaders, Senior Temidayo Macarthy fights to get the rebound with Mr. Tony Klimczak. The two may get along on the football field, but not on the court.

I was very pleased with our victory and compliment the students on their game effort.
-Mr. Dan Marcus

It was fun and all, but we were very unorganized and the guys were more worried about impressing people rather than playing as a team.
-Senior Desiree McDaniel

Winning is all Mr. Zac Wells had in mind after losing to last year's seniors. He wasn't going to let anyone stop him. Not even teammate Mr. Tony Bartolomeo. Mr. Wells lead the teachers to another victory against the seniors.

The Senior Faculty game is something students look forward to when starting High School. Senior Wade McKinley concentrates on his next move while being closely guarded by Mr. Tim James.

Saving the last dance, Seniors Jamie Sweeney, Lindsay Warus and Jamie McLaughlin decide to make their last MHS dance the most meaningful one of all. The girls were committed to having fun the entire weekend, from pictures to dinner to the weekend activities.

I didn't have any expectations, because in my eyes everybody on court could have won.

-Junior A.J. Davis

I was so surprised and honored to have been chosen as queen. Everyone on court deserved it.

-Junior Carol Newell

Enjoying the moment, Seniors Brittany Williams and Bradley Woodward share one of the many slow dances together. Just like many other students, Williams and Woodward decided to attend the dance just as friends.

Taking their first steps as king and queen, Juniors A.J. Davis and Carol Newell prepare to lead their peers through the Grand March. Davis said, "I didn't have any expectations, because in my eyes everybody on court could have won."

Enjoying his last high school dance, Senior Paulo Laorden shares a laugh with his girlfriend, Jessica Recchia, a junior who attends Chesterton High School. For many seniors, the memories from prom will always be remembered.

Always will the students of MHS remember and forever keep with them the memories of their prom night. These memories were brought on by a series of events. Months before, sponsors of the dance got together with students to come up with ideas for the dance. With basic ideas decided, such as the theme "Always and Forever," other plans moved on.

All stayed the same this year except the location of the Grand March. In solution to problems brought up in the past, the Grand March was held in the main gym. Sponsor Mrs. Michelle Sulich explained, "This was an excellent way to have the grand march. This way the parents wouldn't interfere with the students." Parents and students gathered in the gym for the crowning of the King and Queen. Following the announcement of the winners Juniors A.J. Davis and Carol Newell were crowned King and Queen. "I was thinking I can't believe actually won," said Davis.

After the crowning, prom goers were escorted to Avalon Manor. Here the students were able to dance all night and enjoy gifts being thrown out. Many students took with them unforgettable memories.

Senior Peter Brasovan stated, "The memories I made during prom are ones that can never be forgotten."

'ALWAYS AND FOREVER'

Girls just wanna have fun, Juniors Tianna Coleman and Carol Newell steal the spotlight on the dance floor. The girls were both members of the 2003 Prom court, but Newell received the queen's title.

Awaiting the Prom King and Queen decision, Junior Prom court members Tianna Coleman, A.J. Davis, Heidi Hammond, Dragan Trajkovski, Carol Newell, Bojan Jovanovic, April Samuels and Brandon Mosley look onto their classmates, friends and family. Changing tradition, the school tried a new route for the Grand March through the gym.

Feelin' the music, Senior Desiree McDaniel and Merrillville 2002 graduate, Jermaine Johnson, show off their moves on the dance floor. Many prom-goers chose to bring past graduates and/or students from other schools to share their special night.

What was your favorite part of the show, and why?

"My favorite part of the show was the music because it was 40's music, and I love 40's music."
Senior Emily Graun - trumpet

Final words

"My favorite part of the show was the different styles of music we played. It had one of those funky kind of beats."

Senior Marvin Torrence - tuba

"My favorite part of the show was the way it all came together because the show represented all the hard work and effort everyone took on. We all took away lots of great memories from the show."
Senior Aubrey Brainard - drum major

STUDENTS PRESENT

Marching along to the beat, Senior Lee Cotton shows his Pirate spirit. "Marching Band was a great experience. I had a lot of fun times," explained Cotton.

Showing talent

With the band and Color Guard members together, the half-time show was a spectacular event. Showing their "moves," Seniors Brittney Stoica and Kyle Beshears dance together to the sounds of "On the Town."

"ON THE TOWN"

Preparing for their exquisite dance routine, Seniors Trevy Ramos and Jessica Wineke check out the crowd. As the only two seniors on the Dance Team, they worked hard to make their last home football game a memorable one.

Tic Tac Toe, three in a row. Forming a row of Pirates are Freshman Aimee Ortega and Sophomores Kathryn Diehl and Elena Estes. These flute players were always helpful to each other on the field.

The wind is blowing. The lights are shimmering. The crowd is watching, and the judges are ready. Silently, anxious band members await instructions from the drum majors to begin their performance. The drum majors look at each other and give the signal. Suddenly, a burst of music dances through the air, and the show begins.

"I watched the musical 'On the Town,' and that's how I got the idea for this year's show," said Band Director Mr. Bob Meyers.

"This was a really different show from what we were used to," Senior Sharon Hawkins remarked. "The band had to learn how to crab step, which is the way the drumline marches."

The Marching Band included the band members, the Color Guard and the Dance Team. This year, the Dance Team and Color Guard were fused together to create one big Color Guard. The band received a Division II rating at the District Competition at Concord. In order to advance, bands must receive Division I ratings.

"The weekend of District had to be the highlight of this year's season," Mr. Meyers said. "I was also impressed with the commitment level that the kids showed after that competition. Even though we did not advance, they worked hard at practices so that they could do well at the Plymouth Invitational."

"Seeing the crowd give us a standing ovation made me feel good about our performance. We worked really hard," Senior Christina Peschke noted.

The goals for next year's season include creating a schedule that eliminates conflicts with other activities at school, improving attendance and receiving Division I ratings at both District and Regional competitions.

Although only a few seniors participated in Marching Band, those who did said they will miss the experiences they shared in the band. Both Hawkins and Peschke said that they would miss the friends that they made in band and the good times they had together.

"I'll miss the bus trips and the flute section the most," Peschke said. "The flutes had lots of fun together and we grew really close."

Damara Hamlin

With all the screaming and commotion, Seniors Abby Hacker and Christina Peschke still manage to concentrate on their musical notes. These two seniors helped to create the sounds of the show.

TWIRLING TO SUCCESS

Twirling a flag is not exactly as easy as it looks. Just ask a member of the Color Guard team.

"This year they bolted our flags and made them heavier," stated Senior Damara Hamlin. "We had to learn how to get used to the new weight."

Even though they were missing a coach, the team had a fun and successful season. For the first time, the Dance Team and the Color Guard joined together in order to make the football games a more interesting event.

They were one of the most dominant elements of the half-time show.

In order to work together and move in sequence, the Color Guard members took dance classes to learn some of the Dance Team's styles, and the Dance Team had extra practices in order to learn to use the flags correctly.

In order to improve and get their routine right, the team practiced three or more times a week.

Junior Courtney Albright explained, "I try to practice every day, but if I can't, I practice at least three or four times a week."

The Color Guard had many members who are very dedicated in trying to improve the squad.

Senior Night was an important night, so the team worked extra hard to make sure they had their routine perfectly in sequence.

"The season was awesome and filled with memories," explained Senior Brittney Stoica, "but the Senior Night festivities were overall the best."

Lauren Strom and Sarah Cardwell

As Junior Courtney Albright gets ready for the performance, she shows that coordination is everything.

Extra. Extra. Read all about it. Freshman Jessica Savin, Junior Courtney Albright, Senior Schmekia Hinton, Junior Katie Wilson, Senior Mallorie Mitchell and Junior Ayriole Frost are all dolled up as reporters for their Winter Guard routine.

Seniors Brittney Stoica, Damara Hamlin and Junior Katie Wilson get ready for the entrance of the Football Team.

Performing for the crowd twirling a flag

Spining with all of her might, Junior Katie Wilson shows that she can keep her balance and show a smile at the same time. Learning how to spin and move to sets on the field at the same time is essential to a good Color Guard.

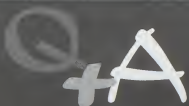

Hanging out in the back room before performing their Senior Night routine, the Senior Color Guard members, along with the two Senior Dance Team members, are all smiles. There were 12 Senior Color Guard members who said goodbye to MHS this year.

The Color Guard is no joke this year. Junior Ayriole Frost and Senior Mallorie Mitchell make spinning and throwing look easy.

What was the funniest memory of the season?

"The funniest memory of the season was when I was supposed to get up and do my routine, but I got stuck in the ground and I couldn't get up. I felt like such a klutz."
Junior Courtney Albright

"The funniest memory was when I was performing, I threw my flag up in the air and it came down and hit me right in the head."
Senior Katie O'Brien

Final words

"We were supposed to eat at a Food Court in some mall after a competition, and we got totally lost. We were starving, and the bus kept passing all these other places we could have eaten at. It drove us crazy!"
Senior Damara Hamlin

"My most memorable memory of the 'Pirates of Penzance' was the role I got to play. I got to act like I was a man instead of a woman. It was classic." Sophomore Jenni Festa

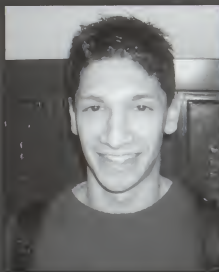

"There were many memorable parts in the play, but my having to learn all my lines was the most memorable part. I never thought it would be that hard."

Junior A.J. Davis

"My most memorable memory of the fall play is when the background trees got stuck on the set in the middle of the performance. Everyone saw and started laughing and shouting." Senior Jaime Ortiz

Final words

What was the most memorable part of "The Pirates of Penzance"?

Acting away

Dancing arm in arm, Junior A.J. Davis and Seniors Jaime Ortiz and Sarah Kennedy sing while playing the characters of the Pirate King, Frederick and Ruth. Many hours of practice and rehearsal go into learning the songs and choreography for a successful production.

Expressing their love to one another, Mabel and Frederick, played by Seniors Laura Sopko and Jaime Ortiz, steal a moment for each other in the night. The role of Mabel, along with the role of Ruth, was double-cast and the actors alternated performances.

Clasping hands, Senior Jaime Ortiz and Sophomore Jenni Festa sing to each other as the character of Frederick explains his longing to Ruth to discover if other ladies exist beyond the confines of Pirate life. On shore, Frederick later meets his love, Mabel, a daughter of the Major General.

'PIRATES OF PENZANCE' DAZZLES

Playing their parts, Junior A.J. Davis, Senior Kathleen Szot, Junior Jennifer Mustafa and Senior Jaime Ortiz act out a scene together on the stage of the musical production. "It was fun getting to know new people and also performing with them," said Szot.

Manning the controls, Junior Katie Wilson and Student Director Senior Caleb Baleman adjust the sound and lighting while the actors perform "Pirates of Penzance." Working behind the scenes is as critical to a musical success as the actors' performing on stage.

During the fall, the Dramatic Society and Choral Department worked hand in hand to put on the operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance."

A collaborative effort among Mrs. Susan Emig, Mr. Roger Emig, Mrs. Melinda Reinhart, Mrs. Beverley Seaver and their students, the cast performed this operetta only four times, but they practiced everyday for six weeks for about two and a half to four hours per day.

This story centers on Frederick, a pirate who is approaching his 21st birthday. Once he turns 21, he no longer has to be a pirate. To add a twist to the plot, Frederick was born during leap year, so he is actually only five and a half years old. The operetta features comedic scenes and includes a secondary romantic plot.

Although this operetta was challenging, when performance day came around, the cast called the play a success.

Sarah Kennedy, who played Ruth, the comedic female lead, said, "Everyone doubted us, but we really pulled it together."

Brandon Waldrop, a member of the chorus said, "We did pretty well considering that it was such a hard play for a high school to do."

The director of the play, Mrs. Seaver, stated, "I thought they were fantastic. I sat out every performance and just enjoyed the show, and that is what a good director should be able to do."

HITTING THE HIGH NOTES

In order to produce the best harmony, students who share the same voice range stand together as a section. The Concert Choir performs under the direction of Mrs. Melinda Reinhart.

All smiles after a successful performance, Freshmen Nikki Kraska, Stephanie Pavlish, Emily Rodriguez, Callie Lucas, Nicole Vowell, Holly Floyd, Erica Aloid, Melissa Hubbell and Jessica Francis pose for a picture. The performers were satisfied with the results of the concert.

During the Christmas concert, Freshmen Brittany Jones, Bobby Tate and Stephanie Pavlish act out the song "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus." Jones and Pavlish try to keep everyone quiet while Santa Claus is trying to sleep.

Before the rest of the choir joins in, Freshman Breana Hendrix sings a solo to begin "White Christmas." Singing a solo allows the performer time to shine in front of the audience.

The sounds of singing can be heard echoing down the hall of the choral department as the Varsity and Concert Choirs gather. Each of the choirs meet and share their enjoyment of singing and performing to audiences.

The Varsity Choir consists of freshmen girls just entering their musical years. Varsity Choir is the starting point for the freshmen where they learn the basics of singing, including techniques like pitch, dynamics, rhythm and blending. The Varsity Choir then uses its skills in concert performances throughout the school year. Varsity Choir member Freshman Callie Lucas said, "The best part of choir is performing at concerts because we get to sing, dance and show off all of our hard work."

The Concert Choir is made up of both boys and girls who either prefer not to sacrifice as much after-school time or are preparing for the upper level show choirs. "I was in middle school choir and I wanted to see what choir was like at the high school at the different levels," commented Concert Choir member Freshman Jared Perkins. The Concert Choir performs their talents at four different concerts, with the emphasis placed on the Christmas and the spring performances.

Choir members not only shine in their own concerts, but also contribute their vocals to musical productions, including this year's operetta "Pirates of Penzance." Participating in the play allowed the choral and drama departments to combine their talents.

SUPREME SINGING SENSATIONS

How does a young man become a member of a high school chorus?

On the first day of school he turns into the wrong classroom. That may be true of other schools, but MHS has plenty of boys who really want to be there. The Choralteens and Vocalteens are co-ed partner classes, while Velveteens is girls only. There are about 15 boys participating this year, many of which have been in choir for four years.

"It's amazing when I think about how fast these years have flown by. Being the oldest students, we share the greatest responsibility in teaching and helping some of the underclassmen," said Senior Brandon Waldrop.

The girls, of course, play an important role, too. For both classes, students have said everyone is so close it is more fun than work.

Senior Julie Trimble said, "Choir is such an awesome class and you meet great people. Since you have had the class with the same people for four years, you really become a family."

This was not just an ordinary choir course. The classes competed throughout the year in contests, put on out-of-school performances, participated in plays, conducted concerts and even went on a trip to New York during Spring Break. These classes can have up to three practices a week with their choreographer, 2000 graduate Robin Childress. Not only did the students practice hard, but they also improved their academic intelligence while doing so. Researchers have found that students who reported consistent high levels of involvement in instrumental music during the middle and high school years show significantly higher levels of mathematics proficiency by grade 12.

"It's one of the greatest forms of expression," Senior Brandon Waldrop said. "It has also been proven that music students have the highest levels of higher-order thinking."

Cora Gray

Singing "Away in a Manger," Senior Keith Murphy and Juniors Ben Graves and A. J. Davis astonish the crowd with their talent. The three also collaborated in a performance in the Revue.

Concentrating on his solo, Junior Ben Graves wows the audience with his spectacular voice. Graves also displayed his talent by winning PNN's show, "Merrillville Idol."

Hitting a high note, Junior Jennifer Mustafa accompanies Junior Isaiah Mercado in a breathtaking performance. Mustafa and Mercado never hesitate to show off their singing ability.

Displaying her singing ability, Senior Fontaine Stegall awes the crowd with her exquisite skills. Stegall is one of the Choralteens' many talented soloists.

As people from all over Merrillville file into Reinhart Auditorium, the performers prepare for the highly anticipated show. After the commotion diminishes, the performers are ready to go. After weeks of endless rehearsals, the talented students of MHS are ready to "show their stuff." Senior Laura Sopko and Junior Ben Graves worked hard together in order to perform with perfection.

"Ben's voice fit the song perfectly, and we had fun performing for everyone," said Sopko.

There were many great performances and plenty of excitement for everyone to enjoy. There are more than just the performers in the making of the Revue. "Techies" were needed backstage to help make the performance run smoothly. People were also needed to run the spotlights and sound booth.

"I love being a backstage techie. I can't act, so I might as well help run backstage," said Senior Ashley McNeil.

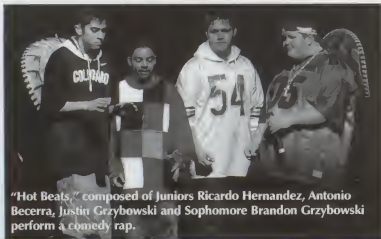

The Revue is the Dramatic Society's biggest fundraiser of the year.

"It was very successful. We've raised more money than any other Revue," said production team member Sophomore Alexandra Garritano.

The show gave the audience everything from a capella songs to dance routines to "Hot Beats" and finally, to end the show, the band "Thanks To Nothing." With all of the acts put together, the show was something you would not want to miss.

Singing "I Will Always Love You" by Whitney Houston, Junior Marsheena Kendrick shows her talent. Kendrick was also runner-up in this year's first "Merrillville Idol."

Taking his position, Junior Isaiah Mercado prepares himself for his dance to "Billie Jean" by Michael Jackson.

Feeling the music, Sophomore Andrea Vela sings "I'm Going Down." Vela and partner, Junior Jodi Suggs, helped get the crowd moving.

Lighting up the stage, Junior Ben Graves and Senior Laura Sopko awe the crowd with their version of "Come What May." This song was chosen from the musical "Moulin Rouge."

Final words

"My favorite act of the Revue was the band "Thanks To Nothing." The band played great, and I am friends with the band." Freshman Raymond Duttweiler

"My favorite act of the show was Isaiah Mercado. He had great dance moves and really got the crowd moving." Junior Tiffany McCauley

Working together, Seniors Nicole Sparger and Freddie Dobry play their cellos. The cellos play a variation of the melody or a counter melody. Junior Ayriole Frost adds to their tune with her violin. The band joined the orchestra for this year's concert.

Trying not to miss a note, Senior Michael Berta plays the violin and provides the melody for the orchestra's music.

Senior Geoff Lalic plays the bass, which provides a low, quiet sound that is good for chords. Lalic has been involved in orchestra throughout high school.

Cellos add dimension to the melody. Freshman Jessica Parker, Sophomores Jeffrey Ortiz and Allison Dyer perform during the winter concert.

Strings plucking, bows moving, and cases clunking. All of these sounds can be heard coming from the orchestra room. Orchestra students dedicate their time to three main concerts. They work both in and out of class to prepare for their fall and winter concerts and their Spring Strings concert. Special concerts serve as practices for Indiana State School Music Association (ISSMA).

Sophomore Mark Wieneke, a member of the intermediate orchestra, said, "I joined orchestra in sixth grade. I liked how the violin sounded."

Having fun in the sun, orchestra students enjoyed a trip to Florida during Spring Break. The orchestra also participated in activities such as solos, small ensembles and large ensembles at the ISSMA Solo/Ensemble contest. Their hard work paid off, earning many of them advancements to state contest.

Three seniors, Michael Berta, Michael Gonzalez and Geoff Lalic, were victorious with a first place win at state. They were part of a large ensemble with fourteen other students. "It was very satisfying," said Gonzalez.

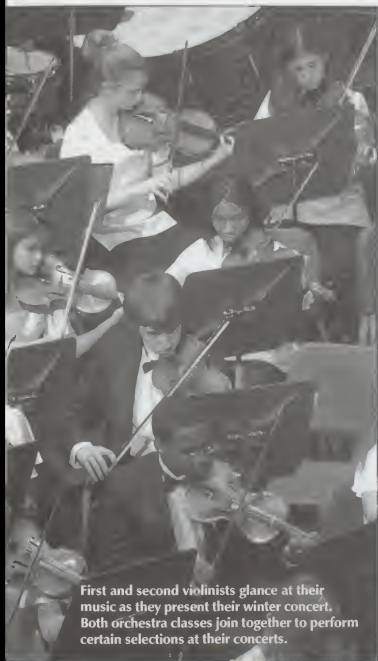

Orchestra director Mr. John Bradford finds the contest a learning experience for the students in terms of independent practice and chamber ensembles, where there is no conductor and the players are responsible for the ensemble.

The orchestras also compete in a full orchestra contest, with members from the band. Mr. Bradford decided to try something new this year, something he called "Big Mop" rehearsals. These rehearsals were held every Monday or Tuesday after Solo/Ensemble until Spring Break to clean different parts of the music. This way the entire orchestra could get together and have a full rehearsal, instead of just parts of the orchestra working at one time.

As the year came to an end, the seniors and Mr. Bradford began to remember the good times they shared the past four years: countless study periods spent together, field trips and hanging out after concerts. Senior Geoff Lalic stated, "I have had a great time being in orchestra. I take with me many memories that I will cherish all my life."

ORCHESTRA

'THE LAST LEAF'

Staring at his blank palette, Old Behrman (Junior Jon Wargo) waits for the inspiration for his masterpiece. Ironically, when the inspiration finally comes, his own death accompanies it. His masterpiece was the "last leaf."

As Sue (Junior Courtney Albright) tries to comfort her sickly friend Johnsy (Sophomore Sharise Rogers), Johnsy says that death will come when the last leaf falls. Yet neither seems to notice that the "last leaf" never flutters or shakes when the wind blows and the rain falls.

Members of the Dramatic Society performed more than just fall and spring plays. After all of the hard work and commotion from the fall play had ended, the students involved with acting decided to take on another task.

The next goal was to perform the Winter-One acts written by O'Henry. The One Acts consisted of four separate plays that all had similar plots and featured Henry's ironic twists.

"The Winter-One Acts was a great way to show off the new talent and the talent of those who do not normally get main parts in the main stage productions," said Senior Student Director Jaime Ortiz.

'THE RANSOM OF RED CHIEF'

the perfect little boy to kidnap and ransom. In this dramatic adaptation of O. Henry's short story, two middle aged men, Sam and Bill, plan to capture the nephew of the richest man in town. However, Johnny (better known as Red Chief), turns out to be a real pain, so much much of a pain, that in the end, Sam and Bill pay Red Chief's uncle to take him back.

'THE GIFT OF THE MAGI'

James Dillingham Young (Senior Caleb Bateman) looks at the prized pocket watch that he inherited from his grandfather, while his wife, Della (Junior Alexandra Garritano) teases him about always showing off his watch. Later, James pawns the watch to buy Della tortoise shell combs for her long hair

Ironically, Della (Sophomore Alexandra Garritano) sells her long hair to Madame Sofronie (Senior Kathleen Hyzy) to pay for Jim's gold watch chain. What Della didn't know was that Jim had sold his watch to purchase her Christmas gift.

'THE COP AND THE ANTHEM'

To get himself arrested, Lemuel (Senior Michael Mable, Jr.), tries to "pick-up" a woman he sees on the street. Florabelle (Senior Diana Hughes) was looking for that as well; however, she was looking for money in exchange.

He eventually buys a four-leaf clover, but she warns him to be careful what he wishes for. In the end, he finally decides to turn himself into an honest man and make a living for himself. However, the Old Lady's words come back to haunt him, because at that moment, a cop comes by and arrests him for vagrancy.

THE SOUNDS OF THE SEASON

Holiday Concert

Snow falls on members of the Wind Ensemble as they play "Sleigh Ride" during the annual Christmas concert. Highlights of this year's performances include "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" and "Christmas Portrait."

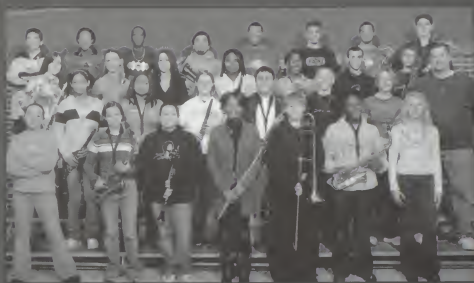

With a Santa hat atop his head, Senior Caleb Bateman narrates "Toy Shop," a clever story that tells how Santa delivers toys to good girls and boys. A four-year drama and band student, Bateman plans to pursue a career in elementary education.

Sophomores Kyle Forcee and Matthew Wieneke and Juniors Cedric Collins and Raleigh Enslen play their trumpets as the Symphonic Winds and Symphonic Band combine for the winter concert.

As a tenor saxophone player, Freshman Christine Stevens provides background, melody or counter-melody for the songs during a band performance. Stevens has played the tenor sax since seventh grade.

The style is different. The notes are different. The songs are different. Yet, many students only know the band to be what they see and hear on Friday and Saturday nights at Demaree Stadium and Engelhart Gymnasium. However, one of the most unique sections of the band, the jazz band, plays to an entirely distinctive tune. The jazz band performs in separate concerts, as well as performing for many groups that request their talent. As each performance gets better, so does the variety of songs the band can play. The whimsical music of the jazz band can consist of anything from slow classical songs to more upbeat modern music. Featured in some of the performances are theme songs from various movies, as well as a few other recognizable tunes. According to Junior Raleigh Enslen, "I really enjoy being able to play the guitar for the band." Being a separate section from the regular band, the jazz band practices regularly for their performances. Senior Adam Lewis stated, "Joining the jazz band is one of the best things I did in high school." As the band continues to improve, hopefully more students will take the opportunity to watch these stylish performers.

Ryan Zurek

During a concert performance, saxophonist Senior Adam Lewis plays his smooth jazz and talented tunes. Lewis has been spicing up the jazz band ever since his freshman year.

Watching the band, Director Mr. Ron Shalk anxiously awaits for the change in the song so that he can let the band know when to switch the beat.

ALL THAT

Playing their instruments, Junior Rod Grove and Senior Marvin Torrence look at their music to see what to play next. Grove and Torrence entertained guests during the Java and Jazz Concert at Pierce Middle School.

Band Director Mr. Bob Myers loves to play his trumpet with the band during performances.

JAZZ

Waiting for their time to start playing again, Juniors Elise Szany and Ashley Poling hold their drumsticks and prepare for the next beat.

Concentrating on playing the next note, Senior Florian Aeschimann does his best to play the song perfectly. Aeschimann, a native of Switzerland, participated in the Foreign Student Exchange this year.

While playing the song, Freshman Dale VanVleet takes a look at his instrument so he can put his hand where it needs to go for the next note.

Keeping her eyes on her instrument, Sophomore Rebecca Kohler presses the buttons to change the sound that she is playing.

"My most memorable moment was when Kathleen (Hyzy) almost broke a pitcher of water, but I still love her." Senior Diana Hughes

Final words

What was the most memorable part of "The Miracle Worker?"

Acting away

Using her hands, Helen Keller (Senior Diana Hughes) investigates her surroundings. Helen relied on her sense of touch since she could not hear or see.

Annie Sullivan (Senior Kathleen Hyzy) says good-bye to the blind children at the Perkins Institute for the Blind before leaving to go to Alabama to help Helen Keller. Hyzy commented, "The Miracle Worker' was the hardest play I participated in."

'THE MIRACLE WORKER' MAKES MAGIC

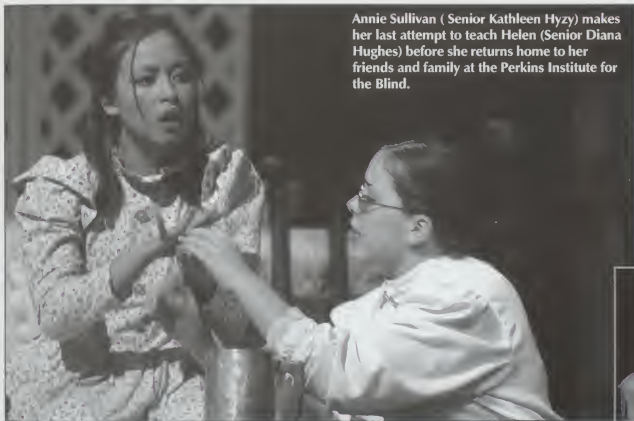

Having a conflict over Helen's behavior, Aunt Ev (Junior Jennifer Mustafa) tries convincing Captain Keller (Junior Jon Wargo) that he should seek help from a specialist for Helen.

Captain Keller (Junior Jon Wargo) confronts his son, James Keller (Sophomore Nolan Buck) during an intense moment of the play. Tension between the father and son began after James' mother died and Captain Keller remarried.

Annie Sullivan (Senior Kathleen Hyzy) makes her last attempt to teach Helen (Senior Diana Hughes) before she returns home to her friends and family at the Perkins Institute for the Blind.

Waiting to depart from the train station, Annie Sullivan (Senior Kathleen Hyzy) and Mr. Anagnos (Senior Michael Mable) say farewell. Mr. Anagnos taught Annie for several years, which makes this scene so emotional.

This year's spring play was like no other. Director Mrs. Beverly Seaver surpassed many obstacles while producing the play. As students showed off their talents, audience members watched four weekend performances, in addition to a daytime performance for students. Seniors Michael Mable, Diana Hughes and Kathleen Hyzy portrayed their roles in a captivating way.

Senior Micheal Mable, who played the role of Mr. Anagnos, stated, "I totally enjoyed this play. We worked really hard to present a great performance. To me, we accomplished our goal."

Senior Kathleen Hyzy, who played the role of Annie Sullivan, hardly left the stage, as she was involved in almost every scene. Accompanying her on stage for most of the play was also Senior Diana Hughes playing the role of Helen Keller. Joining them were Junior Courtney Albright who played the role of Mrs. Keller and Junior Jon Wargo who played the role of Captain Keller.

As this year's senior actors and actresses began to wrap up high school dramatics, students and parents reflected their hard work and talent at a Dramatic Society banquet. Mrs. Seaver stated, "We had alot of talented seniors to work on this play, and they will truly be missed from the MHS Dramatic Society."

To prepare for competition, Senior Danny Lopez reviews his notes on Gothic art, architecture and history. A Super Bowl member must have knowledge of several different subject matters.

Motivation

Waiting for the question, Quiz Bowl members Sophomore Joe Sobek and Junior Randy Johnson clutch their buzzers during practice. Members spend many hours practicing in preparation for Quiz Bowl competitions. This year the team finished second in the DAC with an 8-1 record.

Preparation

Super Bowl coach Mrs. Evelyn Steiner and Senior Sharon Hawkins review key facets of Gothic architecture to prepare for competition. In the DAC, the Super Bowl team placed first in the English division.

Anticipation

Quiz Bowl sponsor Mr. Scott Staley guides Sophomore Joseph Sobek in working out a problem during practice after school. Coach Staley also accompanies the team to competitions. This season marked the first time the Quiz Bowl team competed at the state level.

Focus, focus, focus

With competition nearing, Super Bowl members Senior Renee Neanover, Juniors Allison Czubik and Ryan Miller complete a practice test. Besides placing first in the DAC in English, science and fine arts, the team also finished respectfully in fine arts and math among the area's teams.

Why did you decide to join Academic Decathlon?

"Back in the days, I taught Creative Writing, so when the spot was open, I was asked to fill it. From then on, I've been the sponsor for reasons I don't even understand," Lambersie added.

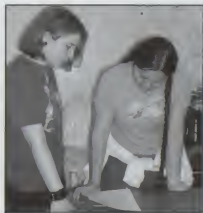

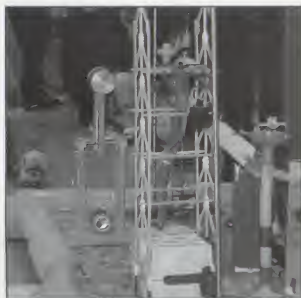

Lighting the future

Lighting the candle of friendship, Senior Lindsay Warus participates in the Quill and Scroll Induction Ceremony. As current members, Seniors Jennifer Heidler and Cole Perkins, look on, 12 members were inducted into Quill and Scroll this year. Eight candles were lit, symbolizing the journalistic values of truth, learning, leadership, loyalty, initiative, integrity, judgment and friendship.

Expressing themselves

To prepare for the next meeting, Seniors Jacqueline Lipski and Naomi Magallan discuss their agenda. Lipski and Magallan were president and vice president of the Creative Writing Club respectively. "The Creative Writing Club is a place where I can share my emotions and expressions with other people through my poetry and short stories," commented Magallan.

Science Olympiad

This year, the school asked Mr. Adam Conard to be the sponsor of Science Olympiad. Although it is his first year as a teacher here at MHS and he only teaches physics, he said that he has interests in other branches of science. Therefore, he decided to head up the club. The only requirement needed to participate in Science Olympiad is to be motivated with an interest in science. Mr. Conard said, "Our meetings are rare and consist mostly of organizational activities. Most of the time that goes into the club involves practice time in the lab."

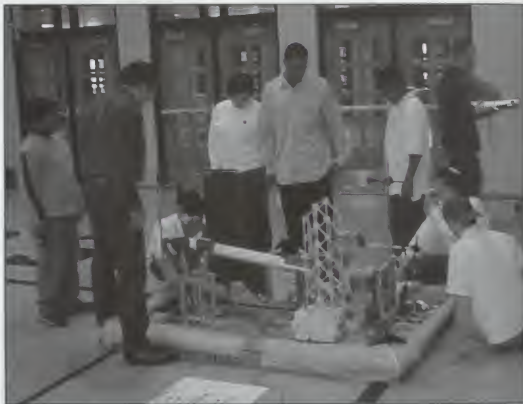

Students in the club participate in competitions where activities may include model airplanes, chemistry experiments, physics labs, identification activities in biology and even some computer related events. The regional competition this year took place in February, so the club prepared for it from November until January.

The variety of sciences involved in such competitions require extensive preparations and an intense desire to study science.

Kate Santeramo

Primed and ready to go, the Science Club's final project is ready to crush some cans. After a series of 26 steps, this machine was built to do some damage, but help the environment. After dropping a ball down a funnel, having a car crash trigger a new step and using the domino effect to keep the momentum going, the hammer finally slams down and smashes the can to be easily recycled. The club also participated in a JETS competition consisting of a two part test with rigorous engineering problems at Valparaiso University. Although last year the Varsity team received third place and the Junior Varsity placed second, the Varsity team did not place this year and the Junior Varsity placed second. However, the competition was not pointless. Senior Peter Brasovan said, "I think JETS is a competition that prepares you for college because the tests are very difficult and very in depth. It also expands our knowledge when it comes to the uses of science in our lives."

Ingenuity

Creativity

Making their finishing touches, the Junior Engineering Technological Society, also called JETS or Science Club, prepares to have their project come into action at the The Rube Goldberg Competition. This year's objective at the competition was to create a project using only natural forces to crush a can and place it in a recycling bin. The competition required the team to invent a contraption that uses at least 20 steps or motions in order to achieve the goal. In the Rube Goldberg competition, a machine must be built in order to perform a simple task. Every year, the task changes in the competition.

Scientific minds brainstorm

With a sense of joy and accomplishment, team members show off their useful, complicated creation. The team, guided by Mr. Miles Dunscombe, slaved on the project since before Christmas and finally perfected it for the competition in March. Mr. Dunscombe took over the JETS/Science Club this year after the retirement of former sponsor Mr. Jim Vermillion. Members are the top junior and senior science students chosen by teachers. Senior Joshua Diehl said, "Overall, the club allows students to see some simple engineering situations as well as gaining experience, better thought processes and work as a team."

Shaking hands, Principal Dr. Mark Sperling congratulates Junior Jamie Kistinger on being inducted. Dr. Sperling also addressed the old and new members, along with their families, at the induction ceremony.

National Honor Society President Senior Kimberly Kish presents Junior Katie Wilson with a certificate of membership. The induction was followed by refreshments provided by the current members of the society.

Service

A speaker at the induction ceremony, Senior Damara Hamlin lights one of the candles representing the characteristics of National Honor Society members. The different candles represent leadership, scholarship, service and character.

Scholarship, leadership, character, and service- these are the principles that the National Honor Society (NHS) represents and that its members strive to uphold in their everyday lives, both in and out of school.

"My favorite part about being in NHS is being able to make a positive difference in the community," commented Senior Kimberly Kish, President of NHS. "I try to uphold the principles of NHS by being a good role model daily."

The NHS participated in many activities throughout the year. Fundraisers included selling Entertainment Books, Pizzas, and the ever-popular Data Match. The main service projects for the NHS members were the induction of the new members and the Roots and Wings Dinner, which honors the top ten students in the graduating class along with their parents and favorite teachers.

"I really enjoyed the induction because last year I was in the same position as the new inductees were in," Senior Guille Dabu remarked. "Our fundraisers were very successful too, especially the Data Match. It was the most popular one."

Mrs. Maggie Stallings is the current NHS sponsor and has been for the past three years. She enjoyed working with this year's bunch and is looking forward to all the possibilities for NHS in the future.

"These students are so busy that working around their schedules is the most difficult part of the job; however, the students are so self-motivated and focused that they are a joy to lead," Stallings said.

There were 54 graduating senior members of NHS, so the 50 juniors will have to take the reigns for next year. The departing seniors had plenty of advice for the rising seniors.

"Stay organized and be sure to voice opinions and share ideas," Kish stated.

Dabu added, "Plan ahead and try to do as much as can possibly be done."

Freshman Academy

New program helps improve ISTEP scores

The ISTEP is a test all Indiana sophomores must take and pass before graduating. Getting enough students to pass the ISTEP often presents a problem for high schools across the state, and MHS is no different. However, this year, MHS had a plan: The Freshman Academy.

"We reviewed all incoming freshmen, and by looking at their math, science and English grades, pre- and post-NWEA scores and ISTEP scores, we decided who would benefit most from programs that dealt with time differently than the traditional schedule," said Principal Dr. Mark Sperling.

The Freshman Academy runs on a block schedule, which gives the students more practice time with ISTEP skills. "We have more time to work with the students, and they get more time to practice and improve their skills before the ISTEP test," stated Mrs. Elizabeth Kenyon, one of the Freshman Academy science teachers.

All of the activities performed in the classes are based on ISTEP standards. Mrs. Lorri Covaciu, an English teacher in the Freshman Academy, commented, "The English course is set up so that we can touch on all ISTEP skills, but we also cover skills learned by other freshmen in their regular English courses."

"I am really pleased with the progress made so far by the students. There's been significant improvement made in the two NWEA tests they've taken so far this year. We have youngsters now passing classes that never did so before," Sperling stated.

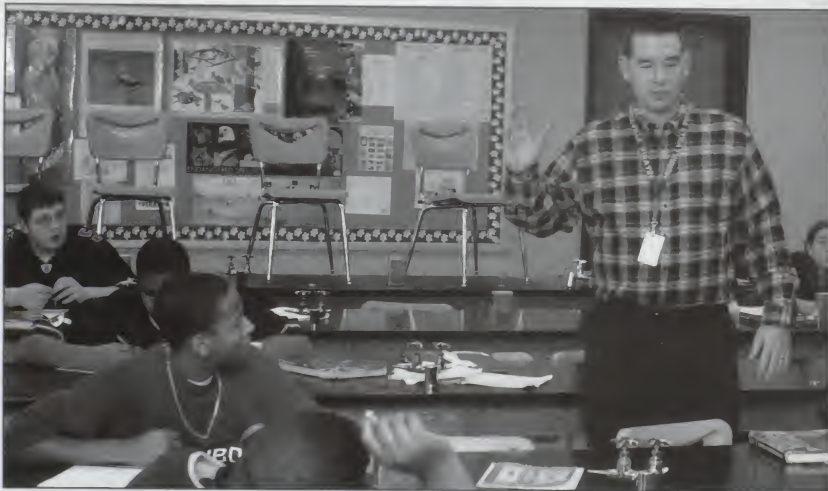

"The students that work hard and try to succeed are the ones that seem to be improving on their skills. They get out what they put in," Mr. Wade Boise, a math teacher in the Freshman Academy, added.

As far as next year goes, the Freshman Academy seems to be something that will be at MHS for a while. When it comes to improvements needed, all of the teachers agree that parental involvement is a big issue and hope that it improves as time progresses. "Good education is an ongoing process," Sperling stated, "and we'll continue to consider what will best meet the needs of the students and the community."

Paying attention pays off

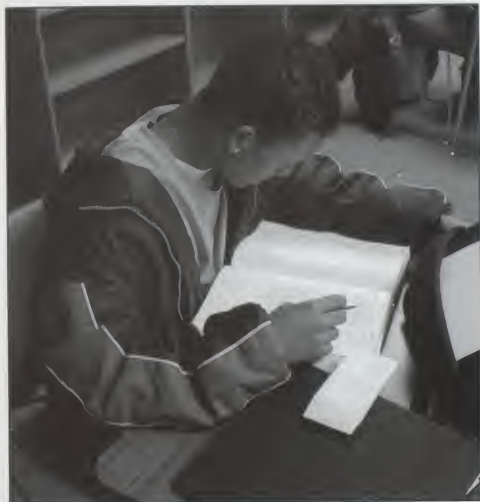

Using body language and all, Mr. Jeff Clinkenbeard elaborates on the concepts of science in his Freshman Academy class. Students may retain more information when listening attentively to an interesting lecture.

"Attention!"

Looking like an expert, Freshman Keith Dean presents his speech on the new student IDs. Proper English skills, practiced in speech, are focused on in the Freshman Academy courses to improve English ISTEP scores.

Focus, focus, focus

With scrap paper and all, Freshman Jericho Marrero prepares to attack some math problems. The Freshman Academy focuses on teaching students ISTEP level mathematics throughout the year.

How can I help?

As questions are encouraged, Freshman Cheryl Munchenburg inquires some information from Freshman Academy Assistant Nick Brasovan in Mrs. Lorri Covaciu's English class. Asking questions on work can be an effective tool for students to learn.

Working together

Happy to help, Freshman Academy English teacher Mrs. Lorri Covaciu points out an important detail to help Freshman Jermaine Jones. Student-teacher interaction is highly promoted in the newest classes.

As MHS students began their countdown to the end of summer, the Environmental/ Marine Biology Club began their preparation for the annual trip to the Florida Keys.

The week-long trip, made in July, is offered to any interested high school student. Months of preparation take place to assemble this trip.

Students pay their own way, so they organize fundraisers to help defer some costs of the trip.

In order to attend this once in a lifetime opportunity, participants must earn credit in Biology I and receive proper certification. Senior Josh Diaz elaborated, "You really have to like marine life as well as be willing to put in many hours of hard work to raise the money. It's an expensive trip."

Before departing for Florida, participants must attend classes both in the water and in the classroom with program director, Mr. Jeff Yelton. Yelton explained about the trip, "Much of our work is done in the field and in an environment totally foreign to the student. What we talk about in a classroom setting is immediately reinforced by a field trip or lab activity conducted in the natural environment."

Performing a routine task, Seniors Martin Cole and Peter Brasovan complete an oil change. Oil changes are a beginning project for the students in Autoshop.

Shifting into gear

Why did you decide to take autoshop?

"I like cars. They fascinate me with their speed and looks. I enjoy working on them, too, and am considering going to school to become a mechanic."

Senior Brian Nierhaus

Changing oil, checking brake pads and detailing cars all might sound like jobs of professionals, but MHS students partake in similar tasks. As a part of the vast curriculum offered to Merrillville students, Autoshop is offered for two hours a day.

Senior Christopher Adams said, "I joined Autoshop to have an opportunity to work on my car and to gain additional knowledge about automobiles."

In order for this class to be a success, the students must have good knowledge of what they are dealing with. The teacher, Mr. Jim Johnston, is trained in all areas of industrial technology. "This area has been a hobby of mine, so it's a dream come true to teach this class," said Johnston.

He feels that the students have many things to learn. Johnston stated, "For some kids, it can be a career. For some, it can be a way to gain knowledge of a car. And for others, it can become a hobby."

The students in this class feel that they learn valuable life information, and they have a good time doing it.

"The class is fun, and you don't have to sit in a chair all hour. Instead, you are constantly moving and performing hands on activities in the lab. Plus, Coach J is hilarious and a good teacher," stated Senior Jared Byczko.

Senior Tiffany Smith

What have you learned from art class?

Working with computers is never an easy task. Students who are involved in the CAD labs enjoy using the advanced technology in order to design and animate different pictures and sketches. The CAD lab has just received a brand new set of computers to be used for the labs. The new computers have helped the students get a better understanding of designing and how animation is made and used. "The students are now able to take advantage of the capabilities that the new computers have," explained CAD lab instructor, Mr. Steven Prather. The students are advanced and know how to master the computers here at MHS. "I enjoy using the new computers and the new programs in the CAD lab. I have learned a lot more," said Senior Clint Wimmer.

Along with the CAD labs, various art classes allow MHS students to express their creative ability. Classes such as painting, photography and ceramics are some of the art classes offered at MHS. Ceramics is a popular class among students at MHS. "I love being able to create new objects during my ceramics class," said Junior Diana Prentoski.

Another popular art class is photography. Students nowadays love to take pictures of friends, family, school life and almost anything possible. Although equipment must be provided by the student, photography proves to be a worthwhile class to take. Many of the students want to learn more about this new hobby, so they take the class in order to learn more about photography. No matter what class you take here at MHS, there is always a good chance you learn something new and interesting.

"Most of you have been involved in a substantial number of activities, in and outside of the classroom. These activities have allowed you the opportunity to be better rounded as students and young adults."

David DeMuth

Michael Krutz

I am very proud of the efforts of the graduating Class of 2003. All of the years of education culminate in this final year of high school. Most of you have been involved in a substantial number of activities, in and outside of the classroom. These activities have allowed you the opportunity to be better rounded as students and young adults. It's difficult, sometimes sitting in my chair, to understand all of the stresses students deal with today. Our society has continued to evolve; it is different than in years past. The crashing of the twin towers, the threat of war, the issues that are highlighted daily in the press all have caused students to have different feelings about our society.

To have eight valedictorians and one salutatorian is remarkable. This class also boasts a National Merit Finalist, Jenna Thraw, and a National Achievement Scholar, Damara Homlin. We have many more academic and athletic award winners in this class. More importantly, the students of the Class of 2003 have risen above the rest to be one of the finest groups of young people in Northwest Indiana.

I salute you and the efforts you have made during your four years here. I hope that all of you will find the success that the fine foundation this high school has provided as you enter the next stage in your lives.

Like standing in the pounding surf of the ocean, high school requirements, demands and opportunities are unrelenting and physically exhausting. Like a river overflowing its banks, the surge of daily activities moves students through their high school years in a rapidly flowing current. Sometimes the days go by so fast that what seemed like a never-ending four years was completed faster than one could imagine.

The great thing about Merrillville High School is that there are so many opportunities for students. These opportunities provide students with the dilemmas and headaches during their high school years of having to choose from among all the options. With graduation, seniors are able to look back and realize that somehow, somehow they were able to navigate the overflowing rapids of daily school activities. They are also able to look ahead with confidence because they have shown they can successfully navigate through so many options, decisions and choices that they will be successful wherever the future takes them. For this we are grateful and proud.

Big changes await freshmen in high school

Making the change from middle school to high school is one of the hardest transitions for students to make. It is difficult to go from the top in eighth grade back to the bottom as a freshman. The stories have been told, and all the rumors have been heard. The first day of school arrives, and a new class begins the journey through freshman year.

From the time the bell rings on the first day of school, instead of worrying about classes, freshmen are worried about being noticed. Many questions begin to fill their heads. Will my friends be in my classes? What are my teachers like? Who will I eat lunch with? Where is my locker? Will the hallways always be this crowded?

What lies ahead for many freshmen is a year full of new experiences. Older boys, older girls, formal dances, sporting events and high school parties are only a few of the things that freshmen will be introduced to. Students either love high school or hate it, but one thing is certain. Each student will keep memories from this year that will last a lifetime.

Dexter Larimore

Freshman year is a hard year for most, but even harder when you're trying to live up to the reputation of an older brother.

Dexter Larimore, however, has made the transition quite well. Dexter proved to be an all-around good student by making A's and B's on his report card, despite the fact that he's always busy with sports. He also proved to be a great athlete by going down to state last year for freestyle wrestling.

Dexter enjoys the high school atmosphere because he gets to be around older people. He also has visions of being the older person and being able to pick on the younger kids.

But what does Dexter like most about MHS?

Dexter really enjoys the athletic programs here. Dexter said, "You got Coach Milhouse, the best lineman coach in the area; then you got Coach Maldonado, one of the best wrestling coaches in Northwest Indiana." He added that the track program here is also good.

Because most of his family is really into sports, he has been motivated for most of his life to be involved in sports. His brother, Riley, Class of 2002 and all-state football player, has been one of his greatest role models. Riley frequently helps out Dexter by giving him advice about football.

Dexter said, "Every time I walk by the Hall of Fame and see Riley's picture, it makes me want to be better."

Sophomores

Caught in the middle and hardly seen

To many students, the sophomore class is the one that goes unnoticed. Freshmen are new to the school and seem to be excited by anything. Juniors are now considered upper-classmen and old enough to stay out later and do their own thing. Seniors are the leaders of the school and ready to graduate.

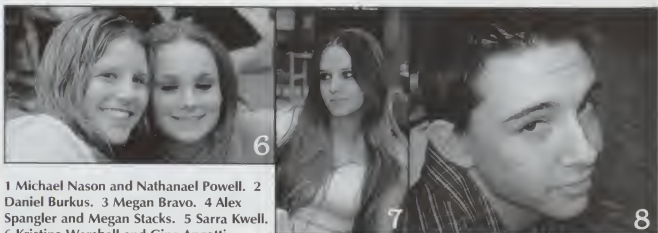

Sometimes the sophomores have a hard time finding their place in the scheme of things.

It's not all bad though. By this time in high school, many students have settled in here. Most know where the classrooms are. Most are familiar with the teachers. Sophomores have matured since freshman year, and many have chosen the people who will be their friends until graduation and after. Most students have found out what type of people they like and the things that they like to do. Also, this is the year many students turn sweet 16 and gain freedom through a license.

Each year a student spends here will seem to go by faster than the last. Although some of the days seem like they will never come to an end, the year wraps up quickly. Most agree the time put in will be worth it, and sophomores realize their years at MHS are half over.

Megan Stacks

For Sophomore Megan Stacks, life revolves around softball. In the spring she plays for the MHS girls' Softball Team. During the summer, she and her family are active in the town's girls' softball league and boys' baseball league. "She has the potential to be an impact player this year," according to Coach Bob Bergeson. "Last year she learned a lot and did a great job for the Pirates."

Softball is a major part of Stacks' family life

Sophomore Megan Stacks is comfortable both inside and behind the batter's box.

In fact, "Stackies" lives and breathes softball. She is the third baseman for the Merrillville girls' Softball Team and spends her summer as a National Softball Association umpire.

"I have been playing softball since I was eight," she said. "And I want to play in college, either at Purdue University Calumet or UCLA (the University of California at Los Angeles)."

An honor roll student, Stacks plays on the high school team and with the Royals in the off-season. The Royals is a Hobart-based traveling team coached by MHS Coach Andy Nicksich.

"Playing on the team has given me more experience on the field," Stacks said. "And it has helped me with my batting." She has a batting average of .283.

Stacks says she works out at Omni 41 in Schererville three to four times a week.

Her summers are spent on the other side of the batter's box, working during NSA tournaments as an umpire. Last summer, she said she earned more than $2000 umpiring softball games. Pay for umpires is $25 per game, and on tournament weekends, umpires often work five to six games a day, Stacks said.

She also works as an umpire for the Merrillville Girls' Softball League at Hidden Lake Park.

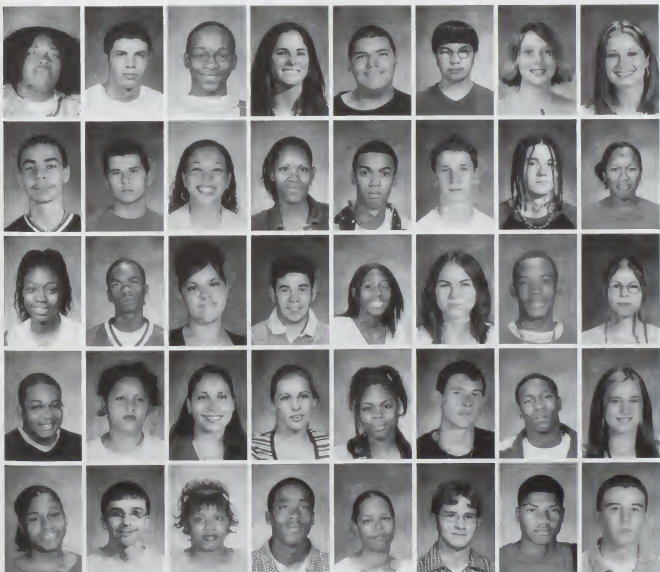

Umpires are required to complete a two-day course, Stacks said, and spend a year learning the basics of umpiring. After two years, she qualified to work as an umpire.

"While I am playing, I'll know some of the umpires," Stacks said. "It's a lot of fun."

Members of Stacks' immediate family are all involved in softball. Her dad is the umpire in charge at Hidden Lake. Her sister Lauren plays for the girls' league and will be a freshman in 2003. Her brother Ian plays baseball in the boys' league. And Mom attends all of the games.

"The whole summer," Stacks said, "is pretty much softball."

Juniors

Juniors finally make it to the "upper class"

Finally known as upperclassmen, juniors have a sense of fulfillment.

Having completed two years of high school, juniors are more than half way done with their high school careers.

These two years were filled with trials and tribulations. During freshman year, everything was so new, and during sophomore year, students had to deal with going unnoticed.

Now, they are filled with the anticipation of becoming seniors.

Some juniors spend much of their year dreaming about next year, their last high school year. They start making every day count.

Heidi Hammond

Many students play sports in high school, but often it is a rarity to find one who plays three sports. These students have to be as dedicated as possible, for their whole year is taken up by practices or games. One of these students is Junior Heidi Hammond. She plays volleyball during the fall, cheers in the winter, and in the spring she plays softball. Hammond was influenced by her sister Rachel to participate in these sports. Although she enjoys all of these sports, she says that during school she considers volleyball her favorite.

"I like volleyball season best because I get to bond with the team and we get really close," said Hammond. However, out of the sports she plays outside of school, Hammond says that softball is her favorite. Although she enjoys everything that she does, Hammond admits that playing sports does interfere with her life. School is often challenging when there is a game during the week and there is homework to be done when she gets home. Sometimes the busy schedule often leaves Hammond with no time to go out. There are always games during the week, in volleyball and softball, and on the weekend.

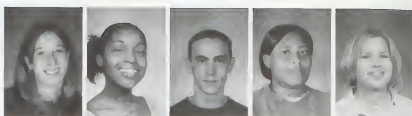

Despite these obstacles, Hammond continues to play. In all that she does, her family is always there supporting her. She says that they are extremely supportive and try never to miss one of her games.

Hammond has set high goals for herself. She wants to play softball in college; however, she does not know where she plans to go. Next year will be her last in high school, and Hammond is excited.

Hammond said, "I can't wait for next year, but I think high school has gone by too quickly because I have been so active."

Principal Dr. Mark Sperling congratulates
Jennifer Duggins as she walks the stage.

Chris Barbauld follows the Senior Class President as a guest speaker using references to Shakespeare as well as popular lyrics.

Graduation

Class valedictorians: Joshua Diehl, Damara Hamlin, Sarah Kennedy, Monique Navarro, Kate Santeramo, Kimberly Shapley, Kathleen Zot and Jessica Zimmerman

Senior David Rooda
presents the class gift to School Board President
Mr. Tom Bainbridge.

At promptly 7 p.m., the class processed into the auditorium. Members of the Senior Class, 455 strong, walked across the stage for their diploma cover.

Guest speaker Mr. Don Baron, a teacher at Merrillville High School who also plays in his own band, writes his own music and touches on comedy, composed a song entitled "Graduation Day" and dedicated it to the Class of 2003. The song completed his comedic monologue after the valedictorians spoke.

Congratulations on all of your accomplishments...

We are all excited for you as you have the power to make your dreams come true...

And, we will always be here for you as we believe in you and love you very much...

Love always, Mom, Dad & Heather

I'll never forget 2002 summer together I miss you so much. You'll be remembered always. Love Katie O. I'll never forget you! All the good times, especially at work. You will always be remembered and loved. Laura I really miss you, girl. I will always remember all of the fun times that we had and all the times we went to the mall and you bought me Gloria Jeans. You should be here, but I know you can't. I love you! Jessica Waneke Your attitude was the greatest. Brian Netthaus

We went through a lot and I really miss you! Although I can't see it, your smile still lights my day. You are always with me! Love you! Kevin P. McMullin Your time here was short. All of your friends love you and miss you. I wish I had the chance to tell you what a wonderful person you were, but you're in a better place now. Love you. Trevy You're a great person and you've so missed. The memory of your smile will live on forever. Nicole Murphy

Your talents made you a shining star. Shine on in heaven. Beverly Seaver Thanks for all the laughs and all the rides home. Jenny needed a great friend like you, and I know I'll never forget you. Tammy Slivka Hi, haren! I wish you could still be here with us. This whole senior thing isn't the same without you. I'm so happy I got to be a part of your life in the time you were here. I miss all the laughs in French and on half-days. Love you Felecia I remember the blue wig and silver eyelids! Mr. Feeney

Melissa Marie Watson

Once in a while, a special friend comes into your life and touches you in a wonderful way. Your personalities just seem to click, and it seems as though your friendship has existed for years. Immediately there is a sense of trust and sincerity, and a feeling of closeness develops instantly. It's refreshing not to have the usual barriers to overcome, and right away, you know that you have found a friend. Even after parting, this person leaves such an impression that from time to time, for no reason, you think of that friend and it makes you happy. I'm really lucky because somebody special came into my life and touched me in that magical way. And it just so happens that somebody is you. Thanks for the magic! I love and will miss you, Melissa.

Love always,
Jenny Slivka

Well, the short time that you were here, you made people laugh. You were a cool person. You are missed by many. Demetria Massengill I really miss the times we shared, especially the drawings on my books! Paul Best Watch over me when I get into the service. We will always remember the humor that you brought to the group. Brandon M. I remember when you first moved here and when I started calling you "Smurf". Love, Matt

I will never forget your bright smile. You are so missed! Christine Albia You have been such a sweet-hearted person. You have touched my life and so many others. Thank you for being you. Love, Kathleen Szot Your smile would always make my day. I'll truly miss that! Mr. Luckey The fun times at the beach. You're a wonderful person. Miss ya Manuly I'm so happy that I met a sweet person like you. You are truly missed. Ashley Gidley

I'll never forget you. I'll always remember your great laugh. You could always make me smile. Chris Trapani Freshman year was great. I'm glad that I got a chance to know you. We all miss you. Jeremiah I'll never forget you. You always knew how to make the class laugh. You made my bad days fun. Love always, Aleks Sotrooski I'll never forget your great attitude. It was great knowing you, especially in French class. Igor Ristovski

Paid for by the friends of Melissa Watson

Melissa,
It was a late and darkened night
The car went off the road,
Into a cornfield it did go
Well, this is what I was told
Instantly, it took her life
She felt no pain at all,
Up to heaven went her soul
But she's still with me when I call
She was so young and beautiful
And had so much more living to do,
But now she has her angel wings
And all her suffering is through,
She was one of my dearest friends
And each day I miss her more,
But I know God needs her there with him
Tho' when I think of her my heart gets sore.
She always used to make me smile
And she'd put a smile on my face,
And when I'd cry she'd be right there
On her shoulder was my place.
When she passed my world came down
So fast, so swift, so soon,
And now I cannot see her face
But I can talk to her through the moon.
Today, I will remember her
And she'll be in my heart,
Because the memories of Melissa
Will remain in that special part.
So when I close my eyes at night
Up to the Lord I pray,
I tell Missy that I love her
And I'll think of her every day.
She will be with me always
Not her body, but her soul.
And I will see her someday too
When it's time to pay my toll.
But until then, I'll pray each night
And every starry night,
I won't forget the memories
Or the times that were so right.
I will always remember Missy
And the smile on her face.
The joy she brought into my life
And how she's won her endless race.
I miss you, Melissa.
With Love, Stephanie Bigelow

I love you so much. You have touched my life in many ways, and I thank you for that. Missy, I miss your smile. I will never forget you. You're a great friend. Love, Tiffany

I am really glad we met. You were a great friend and we all miss you. Noyan

I miss you so much! Thank you for being in my life. I feel really blessed to have known you. Love, Larara Sopko

To Billy McBride

We have been boyz since middle school and you know I can never forget you. We have established many memories, from basketball to even hanging outside of school. We have created a book of memories. Even though you are kind of lonely up there in heaven, just remember we are lonely down here without you. We miss you and want to let you know that when we see each other, we will have a lot to talk about.

Much luv,
LeDaniel

To a friend,
Billy McBride

We have known each other for so long and I could never forget all those memories that we have together. You were truly a good friend. When I was down, you kept me laughing, and when things were not going so well, you gave me a reason to smile. I really appreciate that and will never forget that. I miss you so much and am so honored to have known you.

Ya girl,
Michelle Phillips

Billy McBride

To my boy,
Billy McBride

Your personality is what made you and could never be forgotten. We grew up together and created so many memories. I could never overlook the past. You are so special because your time with us left a shine in our lives. I will always miss you and will always love you.

Luv,
Destiny Mathis

To Billy

This is your girl, Deniel, just letting you know that in my senior year, I missed you and your loving personality. I sometimes reminisce about the fun times we shared in Ms. Lewandowski's and Mrs. Rice's class (middle school). I will never forget your good heart and the life you brought to all the parties. I love you and I will be taking you in my heart as I walk across the stage.

Luv you,
Deniel Dean

To my boy,
Billy McBride

I'm never going to forget you. We hooped together, we played football together, and we chilled together. You were an inspiration in my life and you still are. You showed me how to be strong. You were my "boy" and my "Road dog." Even though death may have taken you from us, life still owns you! We all know you would've been someone great! We're always going to miss you, your words and your crazy sense of humor! I know you're going to be watching over us at graduation as we walk across the stage. We love you and we truly miss you.

Always remember, Billy McBride
Never forget, February 28, 2000 — Freshman Year.
Love,
Chris Harris

1985-2000

Life is Real

His name tells how he is real and cool. The truth is growing up with nothing, later on in life bring something. Hearing bullets passing, can't go to sleep because of fasting. No food on the table, can't buy food because nobody's able, you look at the past and laugh. Everyone learned bread and milk is all that you had. Older people drinking rum, but your best friend is slum. Never dumb but sleep, his parents wonder when they are going to eat. You move on in life. Today, all you can think of is you are going to die, never a lie but watch elders cry. Never can be shy but bold. Wondering why this story was told. So let the revealing message unfold. The person who is there always is my mama, but always encouraging, never finding fault and drama. So your bones can be broke, but knowledge is all I wrote.
by Billy McBride

Billy McBride

I've known Billy ever since Harrison Middle School and we have been through so much together. From math class in the 8th grade to English freshman year. There have been many memories established and I will never forget them. It is really hard to believe that Billy won't be walking across the stage with us, but I know for sure that his many memories will travel with us wherever we go in the future. I know that Billy will never be forgotten. His laughs and silly ways will stay with us through our many accomplishments and different directions. I will never forget you. From the Class of 2003, you will always be a part of our class.

The Colophon

Merrillville High School is a registered member of Quill & Scroll, Columbia Scholastic Press Association and Indiana High School Press Association. Volume 78 of the Merrillvue is entitled "Overflow." Co-Editors Damara Hamlin and Kate Santeramo led the staff, which met daily during the second hour period under the guidance of the adviser, Mrs. Teresa Procter.

Prices of the 2003 yearbook started at $35 from October 14, 2002, to November 27, 2002. The price increased at an interval of $5 in the periods between November 28, 2002, to December 20, 2002, and January 6, 2003, to April 1, 2003. An additional $5 fee was charged to students who wanted their books mailed to their homes.

Mrs. Valerie T. Tanke is the sales representative for Walsworth Publishing Company, which published Merrillvue.

The staff used Adobe Pagemaker, Adobe Photoshop and Microsoft Word to put the book together. The staff used the following fonts throughout the book: Optima for body text and captions, Earthquake in the Lifestyles, Opening and Closing sections; Cameron Bold in the Sports section; Import Bold in the Clubs & Activities section; Cameron in the Performing Arts section; Christina Bold in the Academics section; Kent Bold in the People section; Earthquake in the Senior section; and Bracken Bold in the Advertising section.

Lifetouch Prestige Portraits took underclass and faculty photos. John Bir and his staff at John Gias Photographers took senior portraits, sports, clubs and organization photos. Ed Sablan, Rose Wilson and members of the staff also contributed to the collection of photos.

The Yearbook Staff acknowledges and appreciates the work done by Valerie T. Tanke, for answering our plentiful questions, John Bir, for the amazing pictures and portraits; Kim Shapley, for working with us in fourth hour; Jenny Heidler and Journalism classes, for proofreading and correcting copy; the Technology Department; the Athletic Department; Main Office and Guidance Department secretaries, for helping us when we needed it; Mr. Mark Ciesielski and the PNN staff, for the morning announcements and PNN commercials to advertise the 2003 Merrillvue. Thank you again.

The Staff

The Editors' Note

First and foremost, Damara and Kate would love to thank Mrs. Procter for all the trauma she put up with. She does too much for the staff and deserves a lifetime of praise. No matter what, she stayed calm and made the best of the situation. We love her eternally for all of the support and great times.

We also owe our sincerest gratitude to the staff, especially Dyann Segvich, for staying after class, coming in on break and working at Kate's house on the lap top to do the work that was not hers to begin with. Thanks, Dy! You're awesome!

To the rest of the staff, you all were wonderful and we could not have done it without you. We know it was a rocky journey, but we got through it and the book is one of the best and most original of MHS history.

Thank you to all of the teachers and students who had to deal with interruptions and answered infinite questions to help us out! A special thanks to Mrs. Rose Wilson for taking pictures for us. Thank you all!

To next year's staff, we want to wish you the best of luck. Just know that this is not an easy job and make the best of it!

Sincerely,
Damara Hamlin and Kate Santeramo, Co-Editors 2003

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (1990–2000) and is projected to increase by a further 1.5 million by 2020 (Office for National Statistics 2001).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently for as long as possible. This has led to a number of initiatives aimed at improving the health and well-being of older people, including the development of new services and the redesign of existing services.

One of the key areas of focus is the need to improve the health and well-being of older people in the community. This includes the need to ensure that older people have access to the services and resources that they need to live independently and to participate in the community.

Another key area of focus is the need to improve the health and well-being of older people in care. This includes the need to ensure that older people in care are able to live in a safe and secure environment, and that they are able to participate in the community.

the use of fossil fuels, the release of greenhouse gases, and the depletion of natural resources.

One of the primary ways in which agricultural mechanization impacts the environment is through the use of fossil fuels. Tractors and other heavy machinery require large amounts of diesel fuel to operate, which contributes to air pollution and climate change.

Additionally, the production of fertilizers and pesticides, which are often used in conjunction with mechanized farming, also contributes to environmental degradation. These chemicals can leach into the soil and water, harming ecosystems and human health.

Furthermore, the use of heavy machinery can lead to soil compaction, which reduces the soil's ability to absorb water and nutrients. This can result in increased erosion and reduced crop yields.

Despite these negative impacts, agricultural mechanization has also brought about significant benefits. It has increased productivity, reduced labor requirements, and allowed for the cultivation of larger areas of land.

As the world's population continues to grow, the need for efficient and sustainable agricultural practices will become increasingly important. While mechanization has played a crucial role in this process, it is essential to find ways to mitigate its negative environmental impacts.

One approach is to promote the use of renewable energy sources, such as solar and wind power, to power agricultural machinery. This would reduce the reliance on fossil fuels and decrease greenhouse gas emissions.

Another strategy is to develop more efficient and sustainable farming practices that minimize the use of fertilizers and pesticides. This could involve using natural pest control methods and crop rotation techniques.

Finally, it is important to invest in research and development to create new technologies that can reduce the environmental impact of agriculture. This could include developing more efficient tractors and other machinery, as well as creating new methods for soil conservation and water management.

In conclusion, while agricultural mechanization has brought about many benefits, it has also had significant negative impacts on the environment. By adopting more sustainable practices and investing in research and development, we can work to mitigate these impacts and ensure a more sustainable future for agriculture.

The use of fossil fuels in agriculture is a major contributor to climate change, and finding ways to reduce this reliance is a top priority for many governments and organizations.

One of the most promising areas of research is in the development of biofuels, which are made from crops like corn and soybeans. These fuels can be used to power agricultural machinery, reducing the need for fossil fuels.

Another area of research is in the development of more efficient engines and machinery. By improving the efficiency of these machines, we can reduce the amount of fuel they consume and the amount of greenhouse gas they emit.

Finally, it is important to promote the use of renewable energy sources in agriculture. This could involve installing solar panels on farms to power irrigation systems or using wind power to generate electricity for farm buildings.

By adopting these and other sustainable practices, we can work to reduce the environmental impact of agriculture and ensure a more sustainable future for our planet.

The use of fertilizers and pesticides in agriculture is another major concern, as these chemicals can harm the environment and human health. Finding ways to reduce the use of these chemicals is a top priority for many governments and organizations.

One approach is to promote the use of natural pest control methods, such as releasing beneficial insects to eat harmful pests. This can reduce the need for chemical pesticides and help protect the environment.

Another strategy is to develop more efficient fertilizers that can be used in smaller amounts. This would reduce the amount of fertilizer that is applied to the soil and the risk of nutrient runoff into water bodies.

Finally, it is important to promote the use of crop rotation and other sustainable farming practices that can help reduce the need for fertilizers and pesticides. By rotating crops, farmers can improve the soil's fertility and reduce the risk of pest infestations.

By adopting these and other sustainable practices, we can work to reduce the environmental impact of agriculture and ensure a more sustainable future for our planet.

The use of heavy machinery in agriculture is also a concern, as it can lead to soil compaction and increased erosion. Finding ways to reduce the use of heavy machinery is a top priority for many governments and organizations.

One approach is to promote the use of conservation tillage, which involves leaving crop residue in the field to protect the soil. This can reduce the need for heavy machinery and help prevent soil erosion.

Another strategy is to develop more efficient and lightweight machinery. By reducing the weight of these machines, we can reduce the risk of soil compaction and erosion.
